Thousands Clash In New Brussels Riot

Language Rivals Battle With Eggs, Tomatoes, Jeers

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Thousands of Flemish and French speaking Walloons clashed in riots in downtown Brussels on Sunday in a new outbreak of the language and race rivalry which often has threatened Belgium's unity.

The clashes broke out when 25,000 to 50,000 militant Dutch-speaking Flemish from northern Belgium swarmed into the capital to stage a protest march against what they called their "subjugation" by the Walloons.

Twenty persons were reported injured by sticks, staves, and thunderflashes—a kind of fire-cracker that can burn severely—and the Belgian flag was booed. Fifteen of the injured were taken to hospitals, but all except two were released after treatment.

Police arrested 40 persons from both sides.

Symbolic Insult

In front of the stock exchange, the main battle scene, the pavement was covered with litter, including the furry remains of baby chicks. The rooster is the symbol of the Walloons, and apparently many chicks had been trampled by Flemings to demonstrate their superiority.

The crowds pelted each other with rotten eggs and tomatoes, shouting insults and jeers.

Authorities had called out 1,000 gendarmes, reinforced by riot squads armed with tear gas and water trucks and helicopters, to control the demonstrators.

But the march across the city from the southern railway station had scarcely started before Walloon counterdemonstrators began hurling eggs, firecrackers, insults and making mock Nazi salutes.

Police in helmets quickly intervened, but had difficulty breaking up the brawlers.

Square Cordoned Off

At the Place Rogier, terminal point of the two-hour march, police had cordoned off the square, however, and prevented further serious clashes with several thousand Walloons waiting there.

The marchers—estimated by police at 25,000 to 30,000, though many observers, including newsmen, put the figure at 50,000—were mostly young boys and girls with many sun-tanned farmers among them.

They carried huge yellow flags stamped with the black Flanders lion.

They also carried a few Dutch red, white and blue flags, along with large and small signs with such slogans as, "The language wall is a money wall," "The language of the workers must be..."

Ulbricht Calls For Peace Pact

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's Communist leader, Walter Ulbricht, has told his followers their two main tasks are to get a German peace treaty and modernize the Soviet satellite's shaky economy.

He said this at a meeting of the Communist party's Central Committee three weeks ago. The second section of his speech, 30,000 words, was published Sunday by the official Communist daily, Neues Deutschland.

He gave one sentence to Berlin, saying East Germany's task is "Achievement of a German peace treaty and on this basis the removal of North Atlantic Treaty Organization bases in West Berlin and the transformation of West Berlin into a free city."

He set no date for this achievement.

Ulbricht proposed for consideration at the sixth party congress next January the decentralization of control of industry. Provincial industrial councils should operate independently to improve efficiency of industry and agriculture, he said.

Ecumenical Council: 'Apportioning' Plan Pushed By French

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII left the Vatican on Sunday to pray with Romans before a statue of the Madonna in an ancient church. He asked that Catholics remember Mary during this month in which the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council started.

French bishops spent the day lining up support among the 2,700 council fathers for a plan to insure geographic proportion in the council's 10 commissions. A source inside French clerical circles said enthusiasm for the idea was growing, especially among the American bishops here.

Pope John celebrated Mass early in the day in his private Vatican chapel. He said Saturday night during a special audience for 39 non-Catholic observers to the council that his Mass on Sunday would be offered especially for them.

At noon the 80-year-old pontiff appeared at his apartment window. He recited a midday prayer and gave his blessing, as he does most Sundays. The crowd in St. Peter's Square numbered 15,000.

Soggy grey skies threatened rain in late afternoon as the Pope's black limousine pulled up at the Church of Sant' Agostino, across the Tiber in a crowded neighborhood of narrow streets.

The ancient church contains a magnificent marble statue of the Madonna del Divin Parto—Our Lady of the Divine Birth. Parishioners honor Sunday as her feast day. They placed a crown of exquisitely worked gold on the Madonna's head and a golden garland around the infant Christ on her lap.

The Pope spoke extemporaneously, his voice strong and full of enthusiasm. Then he knelt before the statue in prayer, kissed the Madonna's foot and returned to the Vatican.

Throughout Rome the bishops of the council were deep in consultation.

First balloting for 16 places on each of 10 commissions was to have begun Saturday, with Monday free for vote-counting. But Saturday's working session adjourned in an hour after Achille Cardinal Lienart, bishop of Lille, asked more time for council fathers to confer on commission candidates. The commissions are to go over the council's topics and get them into final shape for voting by all.

Hungarian Reds Strip Marosan Of All Authority

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Vice President Gyorgy Marosan of Hungary, who claimed responsibility for calling in Soviet troops to crush the 1956 revolt, has been ousted from all his government and party jobs.

Budapest Radio, in a sharply worded announcement Sunday, said the Communist party Central Committee stripped Marosan of all his powers Friday because of his "fractionalism" and violation of party discipline.

The language indicated the ouster was a continuation of the high-level purge that Premier Janos Kadar has been conducting against internal opposition for several months.

Unlike some victims of Communist purges, Marosan is being given a pension.

The party committee said Marosan circulated a document charging that a clique "had been undermining his position in the party and his popularity and that the party was lacking collective leadership."

The announcement said the party committee rejected the charges as a "demonstration of his personal vanity and conceit."

Congress Votes Peacetime High Appropriations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1962 congressional session voted $101.3 billion in new appropriations, a peacetime record and the third highest total for any year in history.

Only two World War II years, 1942 with a $147-billion total and 1943 with $115 billion, exceeded the appropriations approved by the second session of the 87th Congress, which adjourned Saturday.

The 1962 total exceeds by more than $5 billion the $96.2 billion voted last year, the first of President Kennedy's administration.

However, it is about $3.8 billion less than Kennedy asked in his budget requests to Congress.

The total this year would have been slightly higher except that the legislators junked a $550-million clean-up supplemental bill before adjourning. But they said they would put it through soon after returning on Jan. 9.

By far the biggest allotment went to the Defense Department, $48.136,247,000.

There were numerous other items connected with present defense needs or stemming from past wars, including a $1.3-billion military construction bill, $3.1 billion for the Atomic Energy Commission, substantial military assistance funds in the $3.9-billion foreign aid bill, and $5.2 billion for the Veterans Administration, to pay compensation and other benefits.

The money total for the year includes $9.4 billion to pay the interest on the national debt, which is a permanent appropriation that does not have to be acted on annually.

Biggest cut below Kennedy's budget was the $1 billion slash in foreign aid. More than $500 million was chopped from the request for civil defense funds, and the agriculture budget was reduced by $867 million.

heavy majorities indicated by the party designation of Congress day members.

It is because of this situation Kennedy said, that he is campaigning so vigorously for election of Democratic congressional candidates. He summed it up this way: "No, I don't enjoy it very much. I think one of the great myths in American life is that those in politics love to campaign. Well, maybe some do, but it is hard work. And I have a good many other things to do."

"But on the other hand, the decision which is made in the next thirty days is going to decide what kind of a Congress we are going to have for the next two years. So I think really there is no place that I ought to be these weeks that is more important at least to the things that I am interested in. If we can hold our own in Congress, it would be extremely important."

Asked if he expects any political repercussions because of the use of troops to enforce a court order desegregating the University of Mississippi, Kennedy replied: "Well, I think it is too early to tell about the political repercussions in November. I don't know. I would hope not, but I wouldn't predict on that."

"But I think... the members of Congress will vote in accordance their more traditional beliefs. I don't think there would be that kind of reprisals. It wouldn't make any sense. I have no choice but to carry out my responsibilities, which I have to do."

Two Survivors Of Cuban Patrol Boat Flown To U.S.

Men Say Vessel Attacked, Sunk By Larger Craft

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Two wounded Cuban militiamen flown here from a Bahamas island said Sunday their patrol boat was attacked and sunk by a larger vessel which then rescued them from the water and took them into British waters.

Immigration authorities identified the two as Sgt. Filiberto Suarez Lima, 40, and Cpl. Miguel Cao Mendina, believed in his 30s.

Suarez, who suffered a bullet wound in the leg, asked for asylum in the United States. Cao, who was in serious condition with bullet wounds in the groin, could not be questioned.

Immigration officials waited at Key West for another six men taken from tiny Cay Sal aboard a 95-foot Coast Guard patrol boat.

Edward Ahrens, district immigration director, said indications were the six had manned the boat which attacked the Cuban boat, then took Suarez and Cao to Cay Sal. Whereabouts of their attack boat was not known, Ahrens said.

Four Aboard 18-Foot Boat

Ahrens said the two militiamen told immigration officers they and two other military men were on patrol duty in an 18-foot boat Friday night, off Varadero Beach, near Havana.

At about 10 p.m., the men said, a much larger boat came close and shot them up. Cao and Suarez were wounded, and the boat sank. The other two men were swimming to shore when last seen, Suarez said.

Suarez said he and Cao were picked up by the attack boat and "all together, we went to Cay Sal." Suarez said even though he was wounded, he remembered there were six men on the larger boat.

"Speaking for myself," Suarez said, "I ask for asylum and parole in the United States."

Ahrens said the two were scheduled for surgery Sunday night and that no further statements would be issued until Monday.

Havana's Version

Suarez' story conflicted with one told Sunday in Havana by the Cuban Armed Forces Ministry.

The ministry announced a pirate attack upon a pleasure craft early Saturday off Cayo Blanco, 15 miles northwest of Cardenas, Matanzas Province.

The announcement said the boat and two of four persons aboard had returned to port and that the other two apparently had been killed.

Suarez and Cao were wearing militia uniforms when they arrived in Miami. They had been given first aid at Cay Sal at an official's residence. There is no hospital on the island.

Cay Sal is 60 miles north of Cayo Blanco. The British commissioner there notified the Coast Guard by radio of the eight persons, two of whom, he said, needed immediate medical assistance.

A Coast Guard helicopter picked up the two men.

Fifth Hurricane May Be Forming

MIAMI (UPI)—A squall area in the southeastern Bahamas showed signs Sunday of developing into the season's fifth tropical storm.

The tropical depression was centered at latitude 23.8 north longitude 73.1 west, or about 100 miles east-southeast of San Salvador in the Bahamas, at 6 p.m. EDT. This was about 480 miles from Miami.

Moderately rough seas were reported over 150 miles in the northern semicircle and small craft in the area were urged to use caution.

Ailing Mrs. Roosevelt Runs Temperature

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's condition continues "not as well" as in the past few days, a spokesman of Columbia - Presbyterian Hospital reported Sunday.

Mrs. Roosevelt has been in the Harkness Pavilion of the hospital since Sept. 26 with a lung infection. The report repeated Saturday's brief bulletin, which described her as having a temperature "which had been under control but has now returned."

German Drama Two Go Back To Red Zone, Rescue Eight

BERLIN (AP)—Two men who fled East Germany three weeks ago returned to the Communist sector and led eight other refugees through tangled barbed wire and deep water to safety in the West on Sunday.

One of the four women in the group collapsed with emotion on reaching the West. She had spent six months in a Communist jail for an earlier unsuccessful attempt to join her parents who had escaped to West Berlin shortly after the Reds began building their wall 14 months ago. The family was reunited Sunday.

The refugees withheld their names to prevent Red reprisals against friends and relatives. The exact route they took also was kept secret.

Members of the group said the two men who escaped three weeks ago met in the Mariefelde refugee reception center in West Berlin. After long discussions they decided to go back to help their friends.

On Saturday they swam a stretch of water on the border, cut through the wire on the East bank and made their way separately to the house of a friend.

During the day they met with three former colleagues, two girls and two married couples. All nine said they were willing to make the escape attempt.

Under cover of darkness they made their way to the border, intending to take the route through the wire cut by their two guides.

The guides, one of whom had spent six months in a Red jail for "slandering" the regime, sternly warned the others: "Whoever loses his nerve, screams or anything, we'll knock him unconscious and drag him with us. There's only one thing for us—to get through."

One guide crept forward to spy out the way.

Baby Delivered Half Hour After Death Of Mother

BERLIN, N.H. (AP)—A normal, apparently healthy girl was delivered Sunday from the body of a woman who had been dead about half an hour.

The operation was performed on Cecile Berthiaume, 28, killed when her car struck a utility pole as she was driving alone to 7:30 a.m. Mass. at St. Joseph's Catholic church.

She died of a fractured skull in the ambulance taking her to St. Louis Hospital.

Sister Demers, a Catholic nun who serves as night supervisor at the hospital, quickly put in a telephone call to Dr. Leandre Beaudoin, coroner at Berlin for 26 years.

He said Sister Demers told him the woman was dead but that the baby she was expecting next week apparently was still alive and might be saved.

Dr. Beaudoin, 62, who was still

President Takes Campaigning Break, Flies To New York

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy got a hopeful report Sunday night on the Congo situation from United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson.

Kennedy interrupted a campaign to stir up voters in the congressional elections to fly from Buffalo to New York for the meeting. This represented an unexpected leg on a five-state campaign tour.

Stevenson, who met Kennedy at New York's International Airport, told reporters he was "more hopeful than I have been in the past that we may come to some settlement in the Congo."

The U.N. ambassador said that while the situation remains unsettled and no one can determine what Katanga President Moise Tshombe may do, "I am hopeful that something constructive is coming out of present negotiations."

Kennedy and Stevenson rode in a caravan from the airport to a downtown hotel. They chatted on the way and Stevenson said he expected they would talk briefly in Kennedy's hotel suite.

No Emergency, Stevenson Says

Stevenson said that as far as he is concerned there is no emergency regarding the Congo. The U.N. ambassador said that Kennedy was very interested in developments there and also in getting his reaction to conversations with Algeria's Premier Ahmed Ben Bella, who is scheduled to meet with the President Monday in Washington.

Stevenson said that he had rather lengthy conversations with Ben Bella. The ambassador, however, declined to say what course these conversations took.

Stevenson said after his hotel conference with Kennedy that he had told the President that developments of the past few days "are positive and helpful and give us some hope of a solution of the problems in the Congo."

The U.N. ambassador indicated he expects Acting Secretary-General U Thant will make a formal announcement shortly on what has been done to bring secessionist Katanga back into line with the central Leopoldville government.

In response to questions Stevenson said that he had reviewed not only the Congo problem, but others existing in the United Nations, including the controversy over the Soviet-dominated Fidel Castro government in Cuba.

"Solidarity" On Cuban Problem

Asked if his report on Cuba were as optimistic as that he made on the Congo, Stevenson replied:

"On the whole, yes. I think we have a high degree of solidarity in the Western Hemisphere on the Cuban problem."

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger broke in to respond to another question to say that Kennedy had no plans on his brief visit to New York to see James B. Donovan, Democratic nominee for the Senate, who is attempting to negotiate the release of Cuban invasion prisoners.

Five Soldiers, Girl Killed In Auto Crash

SCHAFFENBURG, Germany (AP)—Five American soldiers and a German girl were burned to death Saturday night in the collision of their automobile with a German truck near here, German police reported Sunday.

They said the car carrying the Americans and the German girl failed to halt at a stop sign, and ran into the path of an oncoming truck. The truck driver was uninjured.

Exhausted husband to wife: "Boy, what a day. The electronic brain broke down and we all had to think."

Problem Of Conservative Democrats Behind Kennedy's Vigorous Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy acknowledged Sunday the political problem posed for him by conservative Democrats in Congress—but said he doesn't think the Mississippi troubles will make this difficulty worse.

Kennedy said he regularly figures on losing about one-fourth of the congressional Democratic votes on controversial domestic bills and to find almost all the Republicans against him on the same issues.

This means, the President said on a recorded ABC television interview program—"Politics '62"—that his administration actually must work with "only a very razor's edge" margin in House and Senate, rather than the top-heavy majorities indicated by the party designation of Congress members.

It is because of this situation, Kennedy said, that he is campaigning so vigorously for election of Democratic congressional candidates. He summed it up this way: "No, I don't enjoy it very much. The refugees withheld their names to prevent Red reprisals against friends and relatives. The exact route they took also was kept secret.

Members of the group said the two men who escaped three weeks ago met in the Marienfelde refugee reception center in West Berlin. After long discussions they decided to go back to help their friends.

On Saturday they swam a stretch of water on the border cut through the wire on the East bank and made their way separately to the house of a friend.

During the day they met with three former colleagues, two girls and two married couples. All nine said they were willing to make the escape attempt.

Under cover of darkness they made their way to the border, intending to take the route through the wire cut by their two guides.

The guides, one of whom had spent six months in a Red jail for "slandering" the regime, sternly warned the others: "Whoever loses his nerve, screams or anything, we'll knock him unconscious and drag him with us. There's only one thing for us—to get through."

One guide crept forward to spy out the way.

Baby Delivered Half Hour After Death Of Mother

BERLIN, N.H. (AP)—A normal, apparently healthy girl was delivered Sunday from the body of a woman who had been dead about half an hour.

The operation was performed on Cecile Berthiaume, 28, killed when her car struck a utility pole as she was driving alone to 7:30 a.m. Mass at St. Joseph's Catholic church.

She died of a fractured skull in the ambulance taking her to St. Louis Hospital.

Sister Demers, a Catholic nun who serves as night supervisor at the hospital, quickly put in a telephone call to Dr. Leandre Beaudoin, coroner at Berlin for 26 years.

He said Sister Demers told him the woman was dead but that the baby she was expecting next week apparently was still alive and might be saved.

Adlai Gives JFK Hopeful Congo Report

President Takes Campaigning Break, Flies To New York

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy got a hopeful report Sunday night on the Congo situation from United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson.

Kennedy interrupted a campaign to stir up voters in the congressional elections to fly from Buffalo to New York for the meeting. This represented an unexpected leg on a five-state campaign tour.

Stevenson, who met Kennedy at New York's International Airport, told reporters he was "more hopeful than I have been in the past that we may come to some settlement in the Congo."

The U.N. ambassador said that while the situation remains unsettled and no one can determine what Katanga President Moise Tshombe may do, "I am hopeful that something constructive is coming out of present negotiations."

Kennedy and Stevenson rode in a caravan from the airport to a downtown hotel. They chatted on the way and Stevenson said he expected they would talk briefly in Kennedy's hotel suite.

No Emergency, Stevenson Says

Stevenson said that as far as he is concerned there is no emergency regarding the Congo. The U.N. ambassador said that Kennedy was very interested in developments there and also in getting his reaction to conversations with Algeria's Premier Ahmed Ben Bella, who is scheduled to meet with the President Monday in Washington.

Stevenson said that he had had rather lengthy conversations with Ben Bella. The ambassador, however, declined to say what course these conversations took.

Stevenson said after his hotel conference with Kennedy that he had told the President that developments of the past few days "are positive and helpful and give us some hope of a solution of the problems in the Congo."

The U.N. ambassador indicated he expects Acting Secretary-General U Thant will make a formal announcement shortly on what has been done to bring secessionist Katanga back into line with the central Leopoldville government.

In response to questions Stevenson said that he had reviewed not only the Congo problem, but others existing in the United Nations, including the controversy over the Soviet-dominated Fidel Castro government in Cuba.

'Solidarity' On Cuban Problem

Asked if his report on Cuba were as optimistic as that he made on the Congo, Stevenson replied:

"On the whole, yes. I think we have a high degree of solidarity in the Western Hemisphere on the Cuban problem."

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger broke in in response to another question to say that Kennedy had no plans on his brief visit to New York to see James B. Donovan, Democratic nominee for the Senate, who is attempting to negotiate the release of Cuban invasion prisoners.

SCHAFFENBURG, Germany (AP)—Five American soldiers and a German girl were burned to death Saturday night in the collision of their automobile with a German truck near here, German police reported Sunday.

They said the car carrying the Americans and the German girl failed to halt at a stop sign, and ran into the path of an oncoming truck. The truck driver was uninjured.

Gaitskell Faces Laborite Rebellion On ECM Issue

LONDON (AP)—Hugh Gaitskell, leader of Britain's Labor party, faced an open revolt Sunday by powerful party veterans who insist that Britain should get into the European Common Market.

Dissension among Laborites is nothing new. This time, however, the challenge to Gaitskell comes from a new quarter—the right-wing trade union leaders who previously have provided his surest support.

They believe Gaitskell's Common Market policy—that Britain should join only under strictest conditions—carries grave risks for both party and nation.

They say Britain cannot prosper outside Europe and express belief the next election will be fought on the Common Market issue—and that a negative, anti-market policy cannot win it.

Ray Gunter, 53, a Welshman who is a member of Labor's National Executive, brought the anti-Gaitskell line into the open Saturday night. Speaking at a labor union school in Northumberland, he charged that to stay out of the Common Market may mean the end of British greatness.

"It would indeed be irony if the greatest democratic Socialist party in the world—the British Labor party—became so bogged down with the immediate problems of the Common Market and with party advantages that it became completely insensitive to the historic drama now emerging in the world," he said.

"Surely one can sense the hope that is glinting through.

"Who can deny the deep passion of millions of young Italians, Germans and French to finish their ancient rivalries.

"This is our dream, that there shall be a drawing together of men. There is a movement of the spirit abroad and it is meaningless to talk of a thousand years of history."

This was a direct swipe at Gaitskell. In a broadcast three weeks ago he charged that to go headlong into the market might involve the abandonment of British sovereignty and the end of Britain as the center of a great multiracial Commonwealth.

Florence, S. C., Calm Following Riot By Negroes

FLORENCE, S. C. (AP)—Traditional Sunday tranquility returned to Florence in sharp contrast to Saturday night's riot by hundreds of stone-throwing Negroes.

"Everything is well in hand," Police Chief Melvin D. Adams said Sunday. "It's all over now."

But evidence of the riot was everywhere in the northeast Negro section of the city. One plate glass window was broken and at least four car windows were broken.

No serious injuries were reported by authorities. An unidentified 7-year-old girl was treated at her home for shock after the car in which she was riding was hit by stones.

Four persons were arrested, but only one remained in jail Sunday, Adams said. He identified her as Mrs. Esther Malloy, a Negro, whose arrest by a Negro policeman provoked the riot.

Adams said the riot "had nothing at all to do with racial difficulties. There were no racial issues involved."

The police chief said the riot started when policeman Harold Tisdale attempted to arrest Mrs. Malloy for fighting in a night spot. "She started fighting Tisdale and everybody around just got riled up," Adams said.

Tisdale said he was attacked after placing Mrs. Malloy in a police car with two other officers. The attackers stole his cap and tore several buttons from his shirt.

Man Shot Twice; Neighbor Seized

BALTIMORE (AP)—Earl Clarence Peters, 38, was critically wounded Sunday when he was shot twice in front of his home in suburban Dundalk.

An off-duty Baltimore City patrolman, Alfred Parks, heard the shots and took into custody a 47-year-old accountant who lives in the house adjoining the victim's. The suspect was later turned over to the Baltimore County authorities.

Appeals Court Ruling Awaited In Barnett Case

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A federal appeals court is expected to decide within the next few days whether to fine or imprison Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett for his actions in the University of Mississippi desegregation case.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has already found Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. guilty of civil contempt for their role in keeping James H. Meredith, 29, a Negro, from entering the university. However, it delayed imposing sentence to give the officials a chance to purge themselves.

Barnett faces a $10,000 daily fine and imprisonment while Johnson could draw a $5,000 daily fine.

At an Oct. 2 hearing, attorneys for Barnett and Johnson told the court they were ready to comply with its directives against interfering with Meredith, who had entered Ole Miss a day earlier. At the Justice Department's request, the court delayed final disposition of the case to give Barnett and Johnson further opportunity to show their good faith.

Last Friday, the matter came before seven of the court's nine judges. They appeared startled when Charles Clark, representing the two officials, said the court had misinterpreted what he said Oct. 2. Two judges who sat Oct. 2, Richard Rives of Montgomery and John Minor Wisdom of New Orleans, seemed especially surprised.

Barnett and Johnson, according to Clark, would only obey those orders which they felt they could physically and legally comply with. They would make the decision themselves.

This brought a demand from Meredith's attorneys for immediate imposition of penalties—including arrest and imprisonment—against Barnett and Johnson.

However, the Justice Department recommended against arrest now. It said the important thing was what Barnett and Johnson did when—and if—federal troops are removed from Oxford, site of the university.

Russian Bard Publishes Anti-U.S. Poem

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko, self-styled "angry young man" of the Soviet literary world, published Sunday an anti-American poem about last year's crushed Cuban invasion.

The poem, entitled "Cuban Mother," appeared in the Communist party organ Pravda and neatly fitted into the current Soviet propaganda campaign against alleged American threats to Cuba.

Yevtushenko's poem told a tearful tale of a Cuban mother whose husband was killed fighting with Fidel Castro's revolutionary forces against the Batista regime. Her son was killed fighting to repel last year's "Bay of Pigs" invasion. In despair, she lives in a tent on the beach near her son's grave. The poem quotes the mother as saying:

"The sea . . . from whence the murderers come,
"I know—that they may still come."

It concludes with the lines:
"Happy American mothers,
"Do you see this Cuban mother?"

Yevtushenko is now in Cuba working on a movie scenario about the Cuban revolution. He has frequently expressed admiration for the Cubans and their way of life. Since his visit to the United States last year, however, he has generally refrained from anti-American statements such as the one in "Cuban Mother."

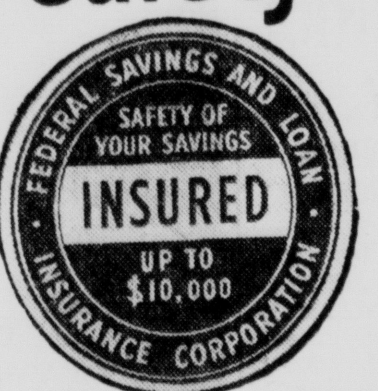

Yevtushenko has run afoul of Communist party literary canons in the past for his bitter criticism of certain aspects of Soviet life, particularly during the Stalinist period. But in recent months he has won praise from party cultural overseers for his contridictions to Soviet propaganda.

Yevtushenko, at 30, is one of the idols of the Soviet Union's younger intellectuals. But Westerners lately have heard increasing criticism among these admirers of his recent "pot-boilers" for the Communist press.

They cite as an example a poem he wrote after anti-Soviet demonstrations in Helsinki last summer during the Communist-organized World Youth Festival. It said:

"I saw the face of fascism on the streets of Helsinki today."

By United Press International

Reno, Nev., and Indianapolis, Ind., as well as the West Coast mopped up Sunday after weekend deluges.

The three-day typhoon-spawned twin storm that dumped up to 21 inches of rain on parts of the West Coast and caused untold damage headed northward and was dissipating.

Although the sun was shining at San Francisco, Calif., where six inches fell during the storm for an all-time October record, the outfield turf was still soggy at Candlestick Park, and the sixth game of the World Series was postponed for the third consecutive day.

President Kennedy announced the government will offer "all possible assistance" to victims of the Pacific Coast storm in Oregon, apparently hardest hit.

As the storm blew itself out in British Columbia, it had left 40 dead in California, Oregon, Washington and the Canadian Province. Six others died of heart attacks.

Six Deaths Raise State's 1962 Traffic Toll To 445

By The Associated Press
Six persons died on Maryland highways Saturday, pushing the grim highway death toll for the year to 445 compared with 341 at the same time last year.

The latest victim was identified by State Police as Edward Junior House, 17, of Gilmore, Allegany County.

Police said a truck operated by House was traveling north on Maryland 36 just west of Midland Police said House was negotiating a curve when the door on the driver's side of the car flew open.

As House attempted to close it, police said, he fell out of the vehicle, which ran off the road, up an embankment, then rolled over House, crushing his skull.

Earlier Saturday, a five-year-old Baltimore boy, Nathaniel Noble III, was killed when he was struck by a car as he crossed a street.

Near Brandywine, James R. Young, 39, of Brandywine, was killed when his car left Maryland 381 and struck a tree.

Two Dundalk teenagers were killed Saturday when their car left Maryland 3 in Anne Arundel County and smashed into a utility pole.

Police identified the victims as Stewart Herbert Bennett, 17, and Robert Leo Stavis, 18.

In Prince Georges County, Charles Goodspeed, 53, of Bladensburg, was killed when he was struck by a car while he was standing near an Annapolis road aiding a driver whose car had hit a utility pole.

Police said a car driven by Lloyd Lambert, 19, of Mill Creek, W. Va., struck the disabled car, rebounded and then struck Goodspeed.

HIGHWAY BLOCKED—Earth and rocks almost trapped occupants of this auto when a slide swept across State Highway 24 between Oakland and Orinda, Calif., east of the Caldecott tunnel. Traffic on the highway was halted for more than four hours. Heavy rain in the San Francisco-Oakland area caused heavy property damage because of mud slides. (AP Photofax)

Bob Kennedys Cruise On Bay

ST. MICHAELS, Md. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and his wife, Ethel, cruised out of this Maryland Eastern Shore community Sunday for Annapolis, Md., aboard a 30-foot yawl.

They had sailed from Annapolis Saturday for a relaxed weekend on the Chesapeake Bay, accompanied only by their black Newfoundland dog, Brumas. The boat was equipped with an auxiliary motor.

The attorney general and his wife moored the yawl at the Miles River Marina here Saturday evening, then motored to the Tidewater Inn in nearby Easton, Md., where they spent the night. The boat, the Hoyna, is not equipped with running lights and hence cannot navigate after dark.

Sunday morning, the couple attended early mass at St. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church in Easton, then returned to the boat.

The attorney general told a reporter that he and his wife were on a "one-day vacation." We're just on a short cruise," he said.

Girl, 5, Run Over By Power Mower

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — A 5-year-old girl has been injured seriously by a power lawn mower. The girl, Adrian Dua, fell in the path of the mower operated by a brother. The mower ran over the girl.

Doctors at Washington Sanitarium operated for three hours to close the wounds, and the girl later was reported in good condition.

Since 1947-49, prices the farmer receives for his crops and livestock have dropped 12 per cent while prices he pays have risen 20 per cent.

Freight-Riding Youth Electrocutd

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Baltimore youth was electrocuted Saturday, apparently when he touched an electric power line while riding atop a freight train car near here.

Police identified the youth as James Wheeler, 18. They said his body was found in freight yards, apparently after he had ridden a train from Baltimore.

Maryland News In Brief

CHEVERLY, Md. (AP) — Vaughn Forrest, a 16-year-old high school sophomore at Charlotte Hall Military Academy in Charlotte Hall, Md., was in fair condition Sunday after suffering an injury in a scholastic football game Saturday.

Forrest, of Baltimore, suffered a ruptured kidney on the kickoff of a game between Charlotte Hall and Lackey High School of Indian Head, Md. His coach, Bob Walbey, said the boy apparently caught a knee or foot in the back as he threw a block. Forrest is an alternating quarterback for the team.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Nine men are being held by Baltimore police under a total of $55,000 bond on ten charges of selling heroin and one charge of selling marijuana.

Police narcotic squad officers told Judge Aaron Baer that the sales had been made between May 26 and Sept. 9. The arrests were made in a series of raids last week, they said. Lt. Jacob Simonson testified at the hearing in Western Municipal Court that his men had made a number of narcotic purchases at various times in West Baltimore.

Six Deaths Raise State's 1962 Traffic Toll To 445

By The Associated Press

Six persons died on Maryland highways Saturday, pushing the grim highway death toll for the year to 445 compared with 341 at the same time last year.

The latest victim was identified by State Police as Edward Junior House, 17, of Gilmore, Allegany County.

Police said a truck operated by House was traveling north on Maryland 36 just west of Midland. Police said House was negotiating a curve when the door on the driver's side of the car flew open.

As House attempted to close it, police said, he fell out of the vehicle, which ran off the road, up an embankment, then rolled over House, crushing his skull.

Earlier Saturday, a five-year-old Baltimore boy, Nathaniel Noble III, was killed when he was struck by a car as he crossed a street.

Near Brandywine, James R. Young, 39, of Brandywine, was killed when his car left Maryland 381 and struck a tree.

Two Dundalk teenagers were killed Saturday when their car left Maryland 3 in Anne Arundel County and smashed into a utility pole.

Police identified the victims as Stewart Herbert Bennett, 17, and Robert Leo Stavis, 18.

In Prince Georges County, Charles Goodspeed, 53, of Bladensburg, was killed when he was struck by a car while he was standing near an Annapolis road aiding a driver whose car had hit a utility pole.

Police said a car driven by Lloyd Lambert, 19, of Mill Creek, W. Va., struck the disabled car, rebounded and then struck Goodspeed.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

AK5♥AKQ98543♦6♣73

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass Pass 4♥ 4♠

Double Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Pass. Your preemptive bid has warned partner that you are not to be relied upon for any defensive strength and he is, therefore, doubling on his own power. The fact that you hold the king of spades should be a pleasant surprise. For you to go on to five hearts would be an unwarranted usurpation of authority.

Q. 2—As dealer you hold:

AKQ742♥Q97♦75♣75

What do you bid?

A—One spade. The hand has too much merit for a preemptive bid of three spades. It totals 13 points, 11 in high cards and two for the doubletons and has the advantage of being in the top suit which always tends to act as a barricade against the opponents.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

AK62♥K53♦A97♣K1092

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♣ Pass 1♥ Pass

1NT Pass 2♣ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Pass. There is a temptation to return to two spades on this hand, but it should be curbed. Your hand is such a minimum that there can be no reasonable question of a game.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

AKQ73♥A63♦Q105♣653

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1♥ 2♣ ?

What do you bid?

A—Two hearts. The fact that you are making a free bid will show that you have a good hand. Don't make the mistake of bidding two spades. Such a bid will almost automatically land you in game. Figure it out. If partner rebids three hearts, under compulsion you will surely take him to four without any idea of whether or not he has more than a minimum.

Q. 5—North-South vulnerable.

As South you hold:

AK1093♥A98♦AJ6♣QJ5

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1♣ Pass 1♠ Pass

2NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—This hand has all the earmarks of a slam. You have actually the equal of an opening bid and partner has opened and jumped. The proper call is a temporary bid of three diamonds awaiting partner's next move. This bid is forcing by common sense. If you were not interested in big things, you would merely proceed to three no trump or, if you had a bad hand, you would pass two no trump.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

AKQ1064♥AKQJ9863

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♥ Pass 2♣ Pass

3♥ Pass 4♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—It is true that partner's bid of three spades indicates a hand that is not robust in high cards, but contains a long suit, which, particularly in view of your vulnerability, must be a good one. Nevertheless, it is also obvious from the bidding that partner is very short in both hearts and diamonds, which makes your club holding doubly attractive. Surely the penalty that may be inflicted upon the opposition cannot be great. Bid five spades and hope to make it.

Q. 7—North-South vulnerable.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband makes about $75,000 a year as a professional wrestler. He has a smart manager and we've done well financially.

We live in a high-class suburb where all the neighbors are doctors, lawyers or businessmen. They have not accepted us because of my husband's profession. His friends for the most part are other wrestlers who hang around here by the dozens. Almost every night they are out on the front lawn practicing holds. The neighborhood kids gather and before long it's like a show.

I've begged him to use the gym which is specially equipped but he says it's more fun outside.

Last night the people next door were having a party and my husband and his pals were acting up. The man came over and said something about cheapening the neighborhood. Now he is in the hospital with a sacroiliac problem. What is your advice? W. W.

DEAR W. W.: Thousands of people spend good money to see the performances your neighbors can get for free. It's unfortunate they don't appreciate it.

After your husband has paid the doctor bill (as well as the lawyer who will probably have to defend him in the assault and battery suit) perhaps he will listen to your suggestion that the exhibitions be confined to the inside gym.

DEAR ANN: Our 16-year-old Peggy has been going steady with a boy 17, for almost a year. I want her to drop him because his family problems are making her a nervous wreck.

The boy's father travels most of the time and his mother is an alcoholic. Recently he phoned Peggy to tell her his mother had passed out and looked like she may be dead. He didn't know whether to call the doctor or the police. Last night he came over at 9 p. m. There was no supper at home and his mother was "out somewhere." Peggy fixed him something to eat and stayed up till midnight listening to his sad stories. When he left she was in tears.

I say this is not healthy for a 16-year-old girl. She has no interest in dating anyone else. When I suggest it she gets angry. What can I do?

DEAR Z. Q. X.: Be sympathetic to the boy and his problems and make no effort to break up the romance. Peggy will stop seeing him only if she thinks it is her idea. Too often young girls hang on to a boy they'd like to unload because they hate to give their parents the satisfaction of being right.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a young man 22 who operates a small store for the owners. They pay me a good salary and I am far from broke.

My mother and sister live about 35 miles from here. They drive in every few weeks for shopping and visiting. Whenever I invite them to stay and have dinner with me it causes an argument. My mother insists on paying for their dinners although I've told her dozens of times that the price of two dinners isn't going to land me in the poorhouse. She always says, "Never mind. Son, spend your money on other things, not us."

After they leave I am embarrassed and unhappy. Why is my mother like this? How can I make her see my side?

DEAR C. N.: Your mother still thinks of you as her little boy and she always will.

On their next trip tell her in advance that you refuse to have dinner with them unless you can be the host. Self-respect is more important than a few dollars.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How to Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MOOREFIELD — Drilling of the United Fuel Gas test hole near Needmore has stopped temporarily at about the 7600 foot level. A pocket of gas was hit in the Oriskany sand before the 700 foot level.

The United Fuel Gas test hole is a "closed hole" which in the parlance of the oil and gas men means no information is being given out. The quarter of a million dollar venture is being put down by UFG and no other companies are participating. Drilling will be resumed in the near future.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

AKS AKQ98543 6 4 7 3
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass 4♥ 4♠
Double Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Your preemptive bid has warned partner that you are not to be relied upon for any defensive strength and he is, therefore, doubling on his own power. The fact that you hold the king of spades should be a pleasant surprise. For you to go on to five hearts would be an unwarranted usurpation of authority.

Q. 2—As dealer you hold:

AKK742♥Q97♦75♠75

What do you bid?

A.—One spade. The hand has too much merit for a preemptive bid of three spades. It totals 13 points, 11 in high cards and two for the doubletons and one for the advantage of being in the top suit which always tends to act as a barricade against the opponents.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

AK673♥AK53♦A97♠K1092

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East
1♠ Pass 1♠ Pass
2NT Pass 2♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. There is a temptation to return to two spades on this hand, but it should be curbed. Your hand is such a minimum that there can be no reasonable question of a game.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

AK73♥A63♦Q105♠653

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South
1♥ Pass 2♠ Pass
2NT Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Two hearts. The fact that you are making a free bid will show that you have a good hand. Don't make the mistake of bidding two spades. Such a bid will almost automatically land you in game. Figure it out. If partner rebids three hearts, under compulsion you will surely take him to four without any idea of whether or not he has more than a minimum.

Q. 5—North-South vulnerable.

As South you hold:

AK1093♥A98♦AJ6♠KJ5

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass
2NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—This hand has all the earmarks of a slam. You have virtually the equal of an opening bid and partner has opened and jumped. The proper call is a temporary bid of three diamonds, forcing partner's next move. This bid is forcing by common sense. If you were not interested in big things, you would merely proceed to three no trump or, if you had a bad hand, you would pass two no trump.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

AKKQ1064♦AKQJ9863

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East
1♥ Pass 2♠ Pass
2♥ Pass 4♥ Pass
3♥ Pass 6♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—It is true that partner's bid of three spades indicates a hand that is not robust in high cards, but contains a long suit, which, particularly in view of your vulnerability, must be a good one. Nevertheless, it is also obvious from the bidding that partner is very short in both hearts and diamonds, which makes your club holding doubly attractive. Surely the penalty that may be inflicted upon the opposition cannot be great. Bid five spades and hope to make it.

Q. 7—North-South vulnerable.

As South you hold:

AKQ754♥A♦Q1076♠K93

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

What do you bid now?

A.—This hand has all the earmarks of a slam. You have virtually the equal of an opening bid and partner has opened and jumped. The proper call is a temporary bid of three diamonds, forcing partner's next move. This bid is forcing by common sense. If you were not interested in big things, you would merely proceed to three no trump or, if you had a bad hand, you would pass two no trump.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband makes about $75,000 a year as a professional wrestler. He has a smart manager and we've done well financially.

We live in a high-class suburb where all the neighbors are doctors, lawyers or businessmen. They have not accepted us because of my husband's profession. His friends for the most part are other wrestlers who hang around here by the dozens. Almost every night they are out on the front lawn practicing holds. The neighbor kids gather and before long it's like a show.

I've begged him to use the gym which is specially equipped but he says it's more fun outside.

Last night the people next door were having a party and my husband and his pals were acting up. The man came over and said something about cheapening the neighborhood. Now he is in the hospital with a sacroiliac problem. What is your advice? W. W.

DEAR W.: Thousands of people spend good money to see the performances your neighbors can get for free. It's unfortunate they don't appreciate it.

After your husband has paid the doctor bill (as well as the lawyer who will probably have to defend him in the assault and battery suit) perhaps he will listen to your suggestion that the exhibitions be confined to the inside gym.

DEAR ANN: Our 16-year-old Peggy has been going steady with a boy 17, for almost a year. I want her to drop him because his family problems are making her a nervous wreck.

The boy's father travels most of the time and his mother is an alcoholic. Recently he phoned Peggy to tell her his mother had passed out and looked like she may be dead. He didn't know whether to call the doctor or the police. Last night he came over at 9 p.m. There was no supper at home and his mother was "out somewhere." Peggy fixed him something to eat and stayed up till midnight listening to his sad stories. When he left she was in tears.

I say this is not healthy for a 16-year-old girl. She has no interest in dating anyone else. When I suggest it she gets angry. What can I do?

DEAR Z. Q. X.: Be sympathetic to the boy and his problems and make no effort to break up the romance. Peggy will stop seeing him only if she thinks it is her idea. Too often young girls hang on to a boy they'd like to unload because they hate to give their parents the satisfaction of being right.

She always says, "Never mind, Son, spend your money on other things, not us."

After they leave I am embarrassed and unhappy. Why is my mother like this? How can I make her see my side?

DEAR C. N.: Your mother still thinks of you as her little boy and she always will.

On their next trip tell her in advance that you refuse to have dinner with them unless you can be the host. Self-respect is more important than a few dollars.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How to Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Keeping The Lid
On In Laos

The last of 800 U. S. military advisers have left Laos in accordance with the international peace agreement reached in Geneva last July. Confirmation is lacking on how many Communist guerrilla fighters and technicians have departed. One report says a hundred out of 10,000. Apparently Washington will never know.

Boundaries that cut up France's holdings in French Indochina do not separate recognizable nationalities. Therefore the Vietnamese who did the bidding of Moscow and Peiping in Laos cannot be distinguished from Laotians. By now the undoubtedly have been well absorbed into they undoubtedly have been well absorbed into

In negotiating the settlement, U. S. emissaries could not have obtained dependable guarantees that these infiltrators would be removed since their presence was never conceded.

Because of risk of lengthy entanglement in an area judged to be ill-suited to American influence, Washington agreed to an admittedly flimsy arrangement. The administration is relying on U. S. military forces in nearby Viet Nam and, to a lesser extent, Thailand to keep the damper on Communist-inspired hostilities in Laos.

If the precarious peace in Laos should be broken again, there will be no doubt where the instigation lies. The International Control Commission now stationed in Laos will be watched with continuing interest. Under the circumstances it may not prove as blind to Communist skulduggery as its predecessor.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky
Always Cuba

There are events in the history of a nation which are climactic and which are burned as with a fiery stylus on the hearts of a people. Such an event was the loss of Calais by England (1558) which altered that country's history, for it lost its foothold on the continent of Europe, never to regain it.

Such an event is Cuba. At first, it is believed that President Kennedy's advisors on foreign affairs pointed out to him that it is impossible to separate the problem of Cuba from the problem of Berlin; that if we reject a Communist base 90 miles from the United States, Soviet Russia is justified in objecting to American bases in Iran and Turkey and, for that matter, Pakistan.

The Battle of the Bay of Pigs gave rise to still another matter, namely, as members of the Organization of American States do we have the right to act unilaterally? We had acted unilaterally when we so thoroughly withheld aid from Batista, when we gave aid to Castro. Also, while we permitted Castro's associates in Miami to smuggle men and munitions out of this country, thus violating our neutrality laws, we were adamant that Batista could get no supplies from us even after he had paid for them. This was unilateral interference in Cuban affairs.

Now, we have a well-organized Communist state in Cuba and the American people want something to be done about it. The Donovan negotiation is a meaningless diversion which, even if successful, may save a few lives and get Donovan a few votes, but the 6,743,000 souls of Cuba remain under a brutal, paranoiac-type of Communist oppression. They will be reduced to slaves by the Russians who will use Cuba for whatever purpose they wish to.

We could in 1958-59 have saved ourselves by supporting Batista against Castro or by supporting neither Castro nor Batista but a moderate citizen's party—a coalition of civic forces. This we did not do because of doctrinaire notions of our policy-makers on the fourth floor of the State Department and the Latin American experts of "The New York Times," who wield great influence.

What can we get out of Khrushchev, who is the realistic master of Cuba? A negotiation might get us a deal by which Soviet Russia would leave Cuba if we got out of Berlin. Such a deal would last ultimately because the German-French alliance would not tolerate it; NATO would be destroyed immediately. Soviet Russia would seek to cover its activities by attempting to make an economical deal with the Common Market which would be to our disadvantage. It could induce the Russians to provoke trouble with Germany which would lead to the ultimate conquest of Germany and even France unless we came in again.

Let us say that the Russians did not push the Berlin question but limited the deal to our getting out of Turkey and Iran if the Russians got out of Cuba. That would make the Mediterranean a Russian lake, with Egypt, a satellite, at one end and Algeria an ally at the other. It would shut off South Europe to us, imperil Greece and Italy and neutralize our bases in Spain. It would force the new African nations to follow the lead of Soviet Russia in the United Nations and probably, in a short time, develop such an antagonistic public opinion in the United States, that this country would be forced to get out of the United Nations.

This may sound fantastic in 1962; it is not as fantastic as the existence of 109 members of the United Nations, many of the states being utterly absurd, but independent nevertheless.

At this moment, there is only one way out of the Cuban fiasco and that is for the United States to invoke the Monroe Doctrine, unilaterally to declare the principle of the Platt Amendments binding and then to go into Cuba and to take it over, as we did before. The risk?

The risk could be war with Soviet Russia. Each Administration wishes to push such a war off but it would seem to me that we have reached Armageddon and that we either do the job or make up our minds to lose Venezuela next; Brazil and Panama after that, and then witness a Fascist-Communist Revolution in the Argentine with Peron back on a white horse.

'This Is The Best Part Of The Deal'

Voters May Seem Indifferent, But Are They?

WASHINGTON — The current political campaign, with its contests for seats in Congress and state offices, has a familiar look. The word "apathy" is being used by many observers to describe the presumed indifference of the voters. President Kennedy himself is getting crowds of fluctuating size. What is the real mood of the electorate?

Past experience shows that, when the people are mad about something, they don't go to the political meetings of the party or of the candidate that has been making them mad.

Also, when there's discontent within a party, the citizens who have voted for its candidates in previous elections just don't show up at all—either at political meetings or at the polls. Elections are then won only by those members of the opposite party who do mobilize their strength or get at least enough support to swing an election. Stay-at-home voters, in a sense, count, too.

Money talks, of course, and, however it may be camouflaged, "organization" means money. The funds to hire "precinct workers" who drag down indifferent voters to the polls are just as useful in mid-term as in Presidential elections.

Certain spectacular contests, to be sure, will arouse voter interest—as, for instance, the Senatorial race in Massachusetts and the gubernatorial contest in California.

But no matter who wins in the Golden State—former Vice President Richard Nixon or Governor Pat Brown—the outcome will hardly be significant of any national trend. Mr. Nixon is on his own. He said flatly on NBC's "Meet The Press" last Sunday that he will not seek the Presidential nomination in 1964 and emphatically declared he will stop any "draft" movement that might emerge. He has seemed to close the door, but the truth is he realizes the door had already been closed against him for 1964.

For Mr. Nixon knows he would not be nominated for the Presidency two years hence if he should lose the governorship race this year. He would be considered to have inadequate political strength to carry his own state as a Presidential candidate. So Mr. Nixon must pledge unequivocally that, if elected, he will serve a four-year term as Governor and not run for President in 1964. He now has done so. As for a "draft," this is not in the cards anyway. The Republican party is split into factions and is looking for new faces for the two places at the top of the ticket.

Mr. Nixon also has said that, if elected Governor, he will support for the 1964 Presidential nomination the Republican who wins the Presidential primary in California. That lets him out of any involvement among the would-be candidates for 1964. Also, it still leaves him free to run in 1968, though he wisely says for the record now that he will not be a candidate in 1968 because that's the year in which he expects to support the Republican Presidential nominee—who, he predicts, will be elected in 1964 and naturally would be re-nominated to succeed himself in 1968.

But Mr. Nixon didn't say what he would do if Mr. Kennedy is re-elected in 1964 and Robert Kennedy becomes the Democratic

Oldsters In Congress Fuss, Haggle
While Important Work Is Undone

WASHINGTON — History will probably brand the exiting 87th Congress as the "Congress of the Old Men."

Never before in history have so many cantankerous old codgers haggled and hassled, fumed and fussed, delayed and dillydallied, put personal prestige over public welfare as that which is now limping home.

The old men not only put a fish aquarium ahead of children's education, but they held up appropriations permitting Uncle Sam to pay his bills while one oldster, aged 84, argued with another, aged 83, as to which should cross the Capitol building to meet with the other.

Meanwhile, the United States has to compete with a nation which has threatened to bury us and which doesn't have to worry about octogenarian chairmen of Congressional committees.

What the public didn't realize about the departing 87th Congress is that, out of 17 Senate committee chairmen, 11 are Senators over 65, while in the House 10 chairmen are over 65. Many of these have become committee czars, not committee chairmen.

For A Jet-Age Congress

In view of the sorry record of the 87th Congress, and in view of the competition which the USA faces abroad, here is a Washington Merry-Go-Round proposal for taking the Congress off its own merry-go-round.

1. Adjourn in mid-June for the summer, then come back to work in the fall. This gives Senators and Congressmen with families a chance to spend their summers with their wives and children.

2. Cut out rollcalls which require hours of walking and waiting. Instead, use an electronic push-button voting system.

3. Give up the system of calling busy Cabinet members up to the Capitol for endless hours of hearings on the whim of two or three Senators or Congressmen.

4. Require any committee chairman over 65 or who has served for 10 years to step down and rotate the chairmanship.

Senility And Seniority

Here are some of the personalities who illustrate the need for bringing the jet age to Capitol Hill.

CODGER NO. 1—83-year-old Clarence Cannon, the powerful House Appropriations chairman, once a live-wire public servant, is now so jealous of his powers that he asked Mississippi Congressman Jamie Whitten, a subcommittee chairman, not to approve a penny for Senate-initiated agricultural projects. "It is going to be our bill or no bill," Whitten notified Senate conferees behind closed doors. Senate leader Mike Mansfield appealed to House leaders to intercede. They could do nothing.

Earlier, Cannon tried to pin the blame for big spending upon the Senate by refusing to appropriate money for "pork barrel" projects. He knew his fellow House members were more eager than most Senators to spend the money, but he figured the Senate would restore the money he had cut out. Then he could take credit for economy and accuse the Senate of inflating his figures. But Sen. Warren Magnuson, Washington Democrat, outfoxed him behind closed doors. Magnuson suggested that the Senate simply accept the House figures, wiping out all "pork barrel" projects. Cannon raised the loudest howl against accepting his own cuts.

CODGER NO. 2—Big, bluff

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

REAL TRAGEDY—The tragedy of Mississippi has cast a pall over Washington unlike any event of recent years. As in war, there are no real winners. And this realization has shocked and dismayed the capital as it has the rest of the nation.

Politics, in the sense of immediate gain or loss, played no part in the Kennedy administration's approach to the problem. In fact, there is every evidence that the President and his attorney general, brother Robert, sought, by private conversation and negotiation, to head off the collision.

Perhaps it was unrealistic on the part of the administration to hope that the University of Mississippi could be integrated without violence. But it was equally unrealistic for the state authorities to believe that once the legal machinery to force integration reached its predictable climax the administration would back away from enforcing the will and orders of the courts.

In the long run, there can be only one solution—the acceptance of integration at Ole Miss. But the travail that lies between the present and the unforeseeable day will be harsh, painful and searing.

To the moderates, who make up the vast majority of the nation's citizenry, there is an uneasy feeling that there should have been a better way. Unhappiness and disturbances nearly always results when the force of law is substituted for education and enlightenment. But inasmuch as the road of enforcement has been chosen, it is extremely unlikely that this or any other administration will be able to find the means to backtrack or slow down.

That being so, it seems that the nation will have to weather this storm, another and certainly as severe a storm in Alabama, and still another in Louisiana. There is at least a decade of strife ahead for the South and the nation, probably much more.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

It was an old house, sitting sedately in the hills, a cluster of tall trees like a feather boa around its eaves. It was brown and broad and it had a portico where dating back to the time when horses and carriages used to rest under it in the heat of the day.

The house is gone now. It went one night recently and I did not even hear the loving of the big fire horn. The flames, they say, went straight up into the windless night sky and the men on Scotland Lightship got out of their bunks to watch it.

In the morning there was a black cavity on the green hill, and the trunks of the big trees showed white where the bark used to be. They stood alone and dead, and the gnarled top branches were charred black. A time, a place had gone. No one missed it.

About seventy years ago, Old Man Parmelee built that house. He was a carpenter who built homes in the Highlands hills for those who could afford them, and his work was firm and his beams were set with wooden pins and leather thongs.

He was something to look at too. He had a long flowing white beard and some people thought he was Santa. He had a young wife and, at the age of 72, they had a son named Edgar. To celebrate, Old Man Parmelee built a big house on the hill overlooking the river for Wallace Reid. Reid was a handsome blond movie star in the silent days and, when the house was finished, he died of an overdose of narcotics.

Later, Old Man Parmelee died too. He lived upstairs over a railroad station at Highland Beach and, on a summer night, he flipped his white beard over the sheet and went to sleep to the strains of "Poet and Peasant," as played on a merry-go-round nearby.

Then the young wife died, although she was no longer young. And Edgar, who was a brilliant naval draftsman, followed them. So, when I first bought a boat, I used to put the engines in dead slow and idle down the river on summer mornings and look at the big old house in the hills and wonder about the great stories they could tell if they were in the mood. Some of them had stained glass windows and one was called Hearts Content. There was a white-aproned maid at Hearts Content who fell in love with a young policeman on vacation and married him in 1910.

The things — good and bad — which happened to them since that time would make another story. In recent years, only the big brown house was left with its gingerbread trim and its cascading lawns running down to the edge of the river. On a still day, I could see the house mirrored upside down in the water.

I heard that Fletcher Pratt bought it. He was a fine writer and I had read some of his books about the Civil War. He was a small, high-domed man with a silken beard. He was in the house three months and died of cancer. Mrs. Pratt invited me for din-

New Antiviral Agent Might Replace Vaccines

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Interferon may prove to be the all-purpose anti-viral agent of the future. It is a substance manufactured in cells invaded by a virus. Once produced, it prevents other viruses from establishing infection in these cells.

In this respect, it is a defensive response of cells to viral infections. As such it increases the resistance of the cells to further infections and also hastens recovery. There is speculation that interferon might replace vaccines for viral infections; it is said to protect against all viruses, whereas vaccines protect against individual viruses.

Scientists have been able to isolate the substance, despite the infinitesimal amount each cell produces. It has been used in the laboratory and on humans. When certain viruses are injected into a fertilized hen's egg, the embryo dies. But this does not occur if the egg contains interferon.

It also is known that some viruses stimulate more interferon than do others. The more virulent strains give poor yields, which may demonstrate why they are so overwhelming. Fever also appears to influence the amount produced by the weaker viruses, but not that of the stronger micro-organisms. When the cells are treated with interferon, they are better able to resist virulent viruses — an important factor when the substance is considered as a remedy or an immunizing agent.

Many other interesting tests have demonstrated the protective effect of this product. In one study, 38 volunteers agreed to be vaccinated at two sites on the arm. None had been vaccinated against smallpox before, so that the chance was good of developing a take. One spot was inoculated with interferon and the other with a control fluid. On the following day, a smallpox vaccination was given over both sides. Interferon prevented a take in 24 of the volunteers, with partial protection in eight others. In this respect, interferon stopped the smallpox virus from entering and multiplying in the cells in this area.

Does the drug prevent viruses from multiplying via immunity or does it work like an antibiotic?

While the Ringling Brothers Circus was packing Madison Square Garden in New York, the bartender of a rathskeller across the Avenue swears an elephant lumbered in one day and demanded a triple vodka on the rocks. "And don't look so surprised," the elephant added when the bartender gasped. "The drink won't hurt me. I'm not doing the high wire routine today."

Al Bernie, one of the best of the night club entertainers has played fortnight stands in one lush spot in New York nine times in the past three years. "The boss tells me," explains Bernie, "that he'll keep bringing me back till I get it right."

Bernie estimates that if he had a quarter for every person who's driving an expensive sports car who can't afford the next payment, he'd have enough money to afford the next payment on his own expensive sports car.

Bernie also tells of a fat friend who went to his doctor to see if he should diet. The doctor checked him against the weight-height chart and told him, "Your weight is O.K. as is; you'll just have to get a little taller."

Perhaps it was unrealistic on the part of the administration to hope that the University of Mississippi could be integrated without violence. But it was equally unrealistic for the state authorities to believe that once the legal machinery to force integration reached its predictable climax the administration would back away from enforcing the will and orders of the courts.

In the long run, there can be only one solution—the acceptance of integration at Ole Miss. But the travail that lies between the present and the unforeseeable day will be harsh, painful and searing.

To the moderates, who make up the vast majority of the nation's citizenry, there is an uneasy feeling that there should have been a better way. Unhappiness and disturbances nearly always results when the force of law is substituted for education and enlightenment. But inasmuch as the road of enforcement has been chosen, it is extremely unlikely that this or any other administration will be able to find the means to backtrack or slow down.

That being so, it seems that the nation will have to weather this storm, another and certainly as severe a storm in Alabama, and still another in Louisiana. There is at least a decade of strife ahead for the South and the nation, probably much more.

Oldsters In Congress Fuss, Haggle While Important Work Is Undone

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — History will probably brand the exiting 87th Congress as the "Congress of the Old Men."

Never before in history have so many cantankerous old codgers haggled and hassled, fumed and fussed, delayed and dillydallied, put personal prestige over public welfare as that which is now limping home.

The old men not only put a fish aquarium ahead of children's education, but they held up appropriations permitting Uncle Sam to pay his bills while one oldster, aged 84, argued with another, aged 83, as to which should cross the Capitol building to meet with the other.

Meanwhile, the United States has to compete with a nation which has threatened to bury us and which doesn't have to worry about octogenarian chairmen of Congressional committees.

What the public didn't realize about the departing 87th Congress is that, out of 17 Senate committee chairmen, 11 are Senators over 65, while in the House 10 chairmen are over 65. Many of these have become committee czars, not committee chairmen.

For A Jet-Age Congress

In view of the sorry record of the 87th Congress, and in view of the competition which the USA faces abroad, here is a Washington Merry-Go-Round proposal for taking the Congress off its own merry-go-round.

1. Adjourn in mid-June for the summer, then come back to work in the fall. This gives Senators and Congressmen with families a chance to spend their summers with their wives and children.

2. Cut out rollcalls which require hours of walking and waiting. Instead, use an electronic push-button voting system.

3. Give up the system of calling busy Cabinet members up to the Capitol for endless hours of hearings on the whim of two or three Senators or Congressmen.

4. Require any committee chairman over 65 or who has served for 10 years to step down and rotate the chairmanship.

Senility And Seniority

Here are some of the personalities who illustrate the need for bringing the jet age to Capitol Hill.

CODGER NO. 1—83-year-old Clarence Cannon, the powerful House Appropriations chairman, once a live-wire public servant, is now so jealous of his powers that he asked Mississippi Congressman Jamie Whitten, a subcommittee chairman, not to approve a penny for Senate-initiated agricultural projects. "It is going to be our bill or no bill," Whitten notified Senate conferees behind closed doors. Senate leader Mike Mansfield appealed to House leaders to intercede. They could do nothing.

Earlier, Cannon tried to pin the blame for big spending upon the Senate by refusing to appropriate money for "pork barrel" projects. He knew his fellow House members were more eager than most Senators to spend the money, but he figured the Senate would restore the money he had cut out. Then he could take credit for economy and accuse the Senate of inflating his figures. But Sen. Warren Magnuson, Washington Democrat, outfoxed him behind closed doors. Magnuson suggested that the Senate simply accept the House figures, wiping out all "pork barrel" projects. Cannon raised the loudest howl against accepting his own cuts.

CODGER NO. 2—Big, bluff

Sen. Bob Kerr, age 66, wangled so many dams for Oklahoma that Congressman John Blatnik, D., Minn., complained privately: "I don't know where they're going to get the water to fill them all."

Kerr also battled behind the scenes for oil, uranium, and helium interests in which his Kerr-McGee company owns large holdings. While thus squeezing economic benefits out of the taxpayers, he also attended the Senate's weekly prayer meetings where he delivered the sermon at last week's meeting. His theme was that the cold war was essentially "a spiritual conflict and would be won or lost in the hearts of the Christian people."

CODGER NO. 3—Virginia's Congressman Howard Smith, the House Rules chairman, used his autocratic, arbitrary powers to bottle up bills that he didn't want to come to a vote on the House floor. Among those he blocked were four bills to aid migratory workers, America's most impoverished, neglected people. Virginia's political boss, millionaire Sen. Harry Byrd, uses migratory workers to pick his apples.

CODGER NO. 4—The 75-year-old Byrd did his share to obstruct the President's fiscal proposals, which had to pass his Senate Finance Committee. Byrd holds the chairmanship because he is a Democrat, yet has backed the Republican Party in the last three Presidential elections. His office is busy calling Byrd's friends to re-elect a Republican Congressman, Joel Broyhill, over Democrat A. C. Johnson.

NOTE—In contrast, three venerable legislators are retiring from the political scene this year with credit. They are: John Taber, 82 years old, honest, hard-working New York Republican, who served 40 years; 87-year-old Brent Spence of Kentucky, a Democrat with 32 years of distinguished service; and Clare Hoffman, aged 87, the Michigan Republican leader who served 28 years. All three were dedicated to the public service whether you agreed with them or not.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

It was an old house, sitting sedately in the hills, a cluster of tall trees like a feather boa around its eaves. It was brown and broad and it had a portecochere dating back to the time when horses and carriages used to rest under it in the heat of the day.

The house is gone now. It went one night recently and I did not even hear the howling of the big fire horn. The flames, they say, went straight up into the windless night sky and the men on Scotland Lightship got out of their bunks to watch it.

In the morning there was a black cavity on the green hill, and the trunks of the big trees showed white where the bark used to be. They stood alone and dead, and the gnarled top branches were charred black. A time, a place had gone. No one missed it.

About seventy years ago, Old Man Parmelee built that house. He was a carpenter who built homes in the Highlands hills for those who could afford them, and his work was firm and his beams were set with wooden pins and leather thongs.

He was something to look at too. He had a long flowing white beard and some people thought he was Santa. He had a young wife and, at the age of 72, they had a son named Edgar. To celebrate, Old Man Parmelee built a big house on the hill overlooking the river for Wallace Reid. Reid was a handsome blond movie star in the silent days and, when the house was finished, he died of an overdose of narcotics.

Later, Old Man Parmelee died too. He lived upstairs over a railroad station at Highland Beach and, on a summer night, he flipped his white beard over the sheet and went to sleep to the strains of "Poet and Peasant," as played on a merry-go-round nearby.

Then the young wife died, although she was no longer young. And Edgar, who was a brilliant naval draftsman, followed them. So, when I first bought a boat, I used to put the engines in dead slow and idle down the river on summer mornings and look at the big old house in the hills and wonder about the great stories they could tell if they were in the mood. Some of them had stained glass windows and one was called Hearts Content. There was a white-aproned maid at Hearts Content who fell in love with a young policeman on vacation and married him in 1910.

The things — good and bad — which happened to them since that time would make another story. In recent years, only the big brown house was left with its gingerbread trim and its cascading lawns running down to the edge of the river. On a still day, I could see the house mirrored upside down in the water.

I heard that Fletcher Pratt bought it. He was a fine writer and I had read some of his books about the Civil War. He was a small, high-domed man with a silken beard. He was in the house three months and died of cancer. Mrs. Pratt invited me for dinner one night. I accepted eagerly. Inside, it was a big, dim place with three-story ceilings. Mr. Pratt's library ran in shelves all the way up, and a ladder on wheels rumbled up and down in front of thousands of books.

My hostess was a painter of distinction. Some relatives were there to populate the old rooms and, at dinner, a cat sat in a high chair at the table eating from a tray. We talked of Fletcher and his work and, after dinner, I thanked the lady and never saw her again.

In the late Spring, the Away We Go IV slid into the water and I tested the engines by taking her downstream toward the sea. It was a scented day, with an admixture of salt brine and the goodness of green growing things in the air, plus a little odor of cracked spongy earth.

The hills of Highlands came into view and the famous Twin-lights, a hundred years old, stood on top staring blindly at the sea. Below, I saw the big brown house. The lawn was trimmed and I knew that somebody cared. There was nothing infirm about the place. It had faced the sea and all it could offer for almost three-quarters of a century, and not a shingle was out of place.

It spoke, if anyone wanted to listen, of another time when men in straw hats peopled the lawn and the huge chapeaux of the ladies were held in place by gossamer veiling with a little black beauty mark on one side. It spoke of boys in starched Buster Brown collars and girls in cool skimpy frocks and cut glass punch bowls and gay blazers and gas mantles and apple butter and big hoops and small earrings and the old side-wheeler Mary Patton and men who looked at the ladies and twirled thick mustaches.

The morning after the fire, some workmen came up. They looked at the carcass timbers and the standing brick chimneys. "It's a good thing," one of them said. "The old joint looked like a haunted house."

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt

"Yankee Go Home" signs have appeared on several walls in Saigon, Viet Nam. One thing Communist stooges seem to have in common — a complete lack of originality.

A high-energy light ray was used to sever the ribbon at a ceremony opening the National Electronics Conference in Chicago. Now the scissors is out-moded!

Two New York footpads tried to rob a plainclothes cop, who is a judo expert, mistaking him for a bum. Their bruises should heal nicely before they get back into circulation.

New Antiviral Agent Might Replace Vaccines

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Interferon may prove to be the all-purpose anti-viral agent of the future. It is a substance manufactured in cells invaded by a virus. Once produced, it prevents other viruses from establishing infection in these cells.

In this respect, it is a defensive response of cells to viral infections. As such it increases the resistance of the cells to further infections and also hastens recovery. There is speculation that interferon might replace vaccines for viral infections; it is said to protect against all viruses, whereas vaccines protect against individual viruses.

Scientists have been able to isolate the substance, despite the infinitesimal amount each cell produces. It has been used in the laboratory and on humans. When certain viruses are injected into a fertilized hen's egg, the embryo dies. But this does not occur if the egg contains interferon.

It also is known that some viruses stimulate more interferon than do others. The more virulent strains give poor yields, which may demonstrate why they are so overwhelming. Fever also appears to influence the amount produced by the weaker viruses, but not that of the stronger micro-organisms. When the cells are treated with interferon, they are better able to resist virulent viruses — an important factor when the substance is considered as a remedy or an immunizing agent.

Many other interesting tests have demonstrated the protective effect of this product. In one study, 39 volunteers agreed to be vaccinated at two sites on the arm. None had been vaccinated against smallpox before, so that the chance was good of developing a take. One spot was inoculated with interferon and the other with a control fluid. On the following day, a smallpox vaccination was given over both sides. Interferon prevented a take in 24 of the volunteers, with partial protection in eight others. In this respect, interferon stopped the smallpox virus from entering and multiplying in the cells in this area.

Does the drug prevent viruses from multiplying via immunity or does it work like an antibiotic?

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

While the Ringling Brothers Circus was packing Madison Square Garden in New York, the bartender of a rathskeller across the Avenue swears an elephant lumbered in one day and demanded a triple vodka on the rocks. "And don't look so surprised," the elephant added when the bartender gasped. "The drink won't hurt me. I'm not doing the high wire routine today."

Al Bernie, one of the best of the night club entertainers has played fortnight stands in one lush spot in New York nine times in the past three years. "The boss tells me," explains Bernie, "that he'll keep bringing me back till I get it right."

Bernie estimates that if he had a quarter for every person who's driving an expensive sports car who can't afford the next payment, he'd have enough money to afford the next payment on his own expensive sports car.

Bernie also tells of a fat friend who went to his doctor to see if he should diet. The doctor checked him against the weight-height chart and told him, "Your weight is O.K. as is; you'll just have to get a little taller."

Junior Women Arranging Benefit Ball At Castle

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. — The first activity in Morgan County, toward financing the county's share of the West Virginia Centennial observance, will be a dance at the old Castle here Saturday, October 27. Oldtimers have long talked about "castle-parties" big flashy affairs, and in keeping with the castle theme, the Club Royal Orchestra will provide the music and the Woman's Club members will attempt to simulate the ball gown style of 100 years ago.

The dance as in years past, will be semi-formal and anyone desiring to dress in royal attire is urged to do so.

Arrangements are being made to have contestants for the Morgan County Centennial Queen's Contest appear at the ball as a preview of what is to come on November 3 when the contestants will be judged in the castle ballroom.

Colts Tounce Browns, 36-14; Redskins, Cardinals Play 17-17 Tie

Unitas Passes Produce Three Baltimore TDs

Completes 18 Of 31 Aerials; Brown Is Held To 11 Yards

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP)—Baltimore scored 23 points Sunday before Cleveland registered a first down and the Colts coasted to a 36-14 triumph over the puncheon Browns before a crowd of 80,132 fans.

Johnny Unitas, Colt quarterback who is not enjoying one of his better years, was on target as he completed 18 of 31 attempts for 225 yards and three touchdowns. Brown Is Stopped

The Cleveland club, known for its rushing game, was held to 20 yards on the ground. Fullback Jim Brown, National Football League rushing leader the last five years, wound up with a net of 11 yards for 14 carries.

The Colts scored the first four times they had the ball on touchdown drives of 75 yards in 10 plays, 52 in 10 and 99 in 17 and a field goal by Wendell Harris, rookie from Louisiana State. Unitas hit R. C. Owens with a 24-yard pass for the first score and Tom Matte with an 18-yarder for the second. Matte tossed 4 yards to Dick Bielecki for the third.

The Browns' first gesture came after all that scoring and Harris' 17-yard field goal. As the half was running out Jim Ninowski's passes carried to the 8-yard line but Ray Renfro muffed a pass in the end zone as the gun sounded.

Ninowski passed 53 yards to Brown for a touchdown as the second half opened, the Browns going 64 yards in four plays for the score. Late in the period the Browns had the ball on the Colt 12 with a first down situation, but Brown came up with one of his three fumbles of the day to kill the threat.

A picture play gave Cleveland its second touchdown early in the final session. Ninowski tossed a lateral to Brown, who started around end, then stopped and threw a backward pass to Ninowski, who threw 18 yards into the end zone to Rich Kreitling.

The Browns appeared to be on their way about 10 minutes to go, but Andy Nelson came up with a great one-handed interception of a Ninowski pass, and eight plays later Unitas passed nine yards to Owens for the fourth Col touchdown.

With time running out, the Browns tried the tricky pass maneuver which had paid off for their second score, but Brown fumbled again and Orrell Braase, defensive end, picked the ball up on the 10 and rolled across for the touchdown which ended the scoring.

Ninowski completed 16 of 35 passes for 216 yards and the two scores, with Kreitling catching five to lead the way. Owens was Baltimore's big receiver with six for 81 yards.

Perry Leads Rushers
Fullback Joe Perry, in his 14th year, led the Colt rushers with 57 yards in eight tries. The Browns, for probably the first time in history, had only one first down rushing. The loss in the interconference game dropped Cleveland to a 2-3 rating and practically out of contention, while Baltimore moved up to 3-2.

Bears Lose, 34-27, To San Francisco

By ED SAINSBURY

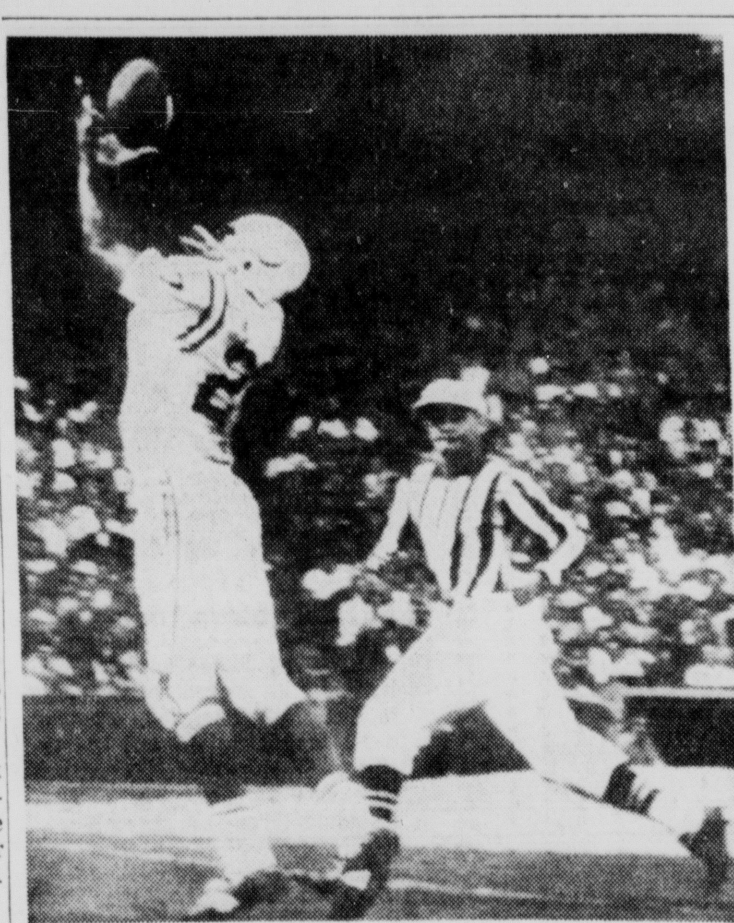

CHICAGO (UPI)—An 80-yard pass from John Brodie to Jim Johnson with less than seven minutes of play carried the San Francisco Forty Niners to a 34-27 National Football League triumph Sunday over the butte-fingered Chicago Bears.

The Bears lost the ball three times on fumbles and once on a pass interception. On all but one of these mistakes, the Forty Niners capitalized with points.

It was the Forty Niners' third win in five games this season and evened them with the Bears at 3-2 in the Western Division. The Bears defeated the Forty Niners 30-14 in the season opener.

Chicago, outside of hitting on a few long pass plays three times for touchdowns, could do little right.

Groom And 27 Horses Die In Fire At Batavia Downs

Demon Damsel, Top Trotter, Perishes At New York Track

BATAVIA, N.Y. (UPI)—Fire raced through two stables at Batavia Downs Sunday, killing a groom and at least 21 horses—including one which had won $44,000 this season.

The dead man was identified as groom Jack Jamieson, 35, believed from Butler, Pa., who arrived at the track only in the last couple of days, police said.

A track spokesman said that 70 horses were in the two 100 by 40 foot cement block stables at the 22-year-old track when the fire began.

Trainers and grooms led the others to safety, the spokesman said.

All the dead horses were trained by Bud Gilmour of Hamburg, N.Y., and Cing Galbraith of Tara, Ont., the spokesman said.

He said that at least 17 trained by Gilmour died and four in Galbraith's string perished.

The track said that four horses still were missing, but were believed to have run away in the confusion after they were led from the burning barns.

Denver Trims Oakland, 23-6

Mingo Accounts For 17 Tallies

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Scoring machine Gene Mingo accounted for 17 points Sunday as the league-leading Denver Broncos scrambled the winless Oakland Raiders, 23-6, in an American Football League game played on mud-slick Frank Youell Field.

The 200-pound halfback, who has accounted for 83 points in six games this season, kicked three field goals for a 9-0 Bronco lead, then scored the game's first touchdown and added the extra point. Lionel Taylor made the other Denver score on a 1-yard pass from Frank Tripucka and Mingo again converted.

Savage defensive play by the Broncos allowed the Raiders few scoring opportunities as Oakland went down to its fifth straight defeat before a crowd estimated at 7,000. This was the Broncos' fifth win in six games and gave them undisputed possession of first place in the Western Division.

Scoring:

Johnson Wins Race, Cops $10,350 Prize

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Hulkling Junior Johnson of Ronda, N.C., grabbed the lead at the start Sunday and went onto victory in the $50,000 national 400-mile stock car race.

The 215-pound Johnson, who started on the outside pole position, never was out of the lead except for brief times he spent in the pits. He averaged 132.260 miles an hour in a 1962 Pontiac built by Ray Fof of Daytona Beach, Fla.

Johnson picked up $10,350 first prize money.

Glenn (Fireball) Roberts of Daytona Beach, who started on the inside pole position, finished second, nearly a lap behind, in a 1962 Pontiac. Fred Lorenzen of Elmhurst, Ill., was third in a 1962 Ford. Roberts collected $5,315 and Lorenzen $3,260.

Colts Trounce Browns, 36-14; Redskins, Cardinals Play 17-17 Tie

Unitas Passes Produce Three Baltimore TDs

Completes 18 Of 31 Aerials; Brown Is Held To 11 Yards

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Baltimore scored 23 points Sunday before Cleveland registered a first down and the Colts coasted to a 36-14 triumph over the puncheon Browns before a crowd of 80,132 fans.

Johnny Unitas, Colt quarterback who is not enjoying one of his better years, was on target as he completed 18 of 31 attempts for 225 yards and three touchdowns.

Brown Is Stopped

The Cleveland club, known for its rushing game, was held to 20 yards on the ground. Fullback Jim Brown, National Football League rushing leader the last five years, wound up with a net of 11 yards for 24 carries.

The Colts scored the first four times they had the ball on touchdown drives of 75 yards in 10 plays, 52 in 10 and 99 in 17 and a field goal by Wendell Harris, rookie from Louisiana State. Unitas hit R. C. Owens with a 24-yard pass for the first score and Tom Matte with an 18-yarder for the second. Matte tossed 4 yards to Dick Bielecki for the third.

The Browns' first gesture came after all that scoring and Harris' 17-yard field goal. As the half was running out Jim Ninowski's passes carried to the 8-yard line but Ray Renfro muffed a pass in the end zone as the gun sounded.

Ninowski passed 53 yards to Brown for a touchdown as the second half opened. The Browns going 64 yards in four plays for the score. Late in the period the Browns had the ball on the Colt 12 with a first down situation, but Brown came up with one of his three fumbles of the day to kill the threat.

A picture play gave Cleveland its second touchdown early in the final session. Ninowski tossed a lateral to Brown, who started around end, then stopped and threw a backward pass to Ninowski, who threw 18 yards into the end zone to Rich Kreitling.

The Browns appeared to be on their way about 10 minutes to go, but Andy Nelson came up with a great one-handed interception of a Ninowski pass, and eight plays later Unitas passed nine yards to Owens for the fourth Colt touchdown.

With time running out, the Browns tried the tricky pass maneuver which had paid off for their second score, but Brown fumbled again and Ordell Braase, defensive end, picked the ball up on the 10 and rolled across for the touchdown which ended the scoring.

Ninowski completed 16 of 35 passes for 216 yards and the two scores, with Kreitling catching five to lead the way. Owens was Baltimore's big receiver with six for 81 yards.

Perry Leads Rushers
Fullback Joe Perry, in his 14th year, led the Colt rushers with 57 yards in eight tries. The Browns, for probably the first time in history, had only one first down rushing. The loss in the interference game dropped Cleveland to a 2-3 rating and practically out of contention, while Baltimore moved up to 3-2.

Bears Lose, 34-27, To San Francisco

By ED SAINSBURY
UPI Sports Writer

CHICAGO (UPI) — An 80-yard pass play from John Brodie to Jim Johnson with less than seven minutes of play carried the San Francisco Forty Niners to a 34-27 National Football League triumph Sunday over the butterfingers Chicago Bears.

The Bears lost the ball three times on fumbles and once on a pass interception. On all but one of these mistakes the Forty Niners capitalized with points.

It was the Forty Niners' third win in five games this season and evened them with the Bears at 3-2 in the Western Division. The Bears defeated the Forty Niners 30-14 in the season opener.

Chicago, outside of hitting on a few long pass plays three times for touchdowns, could do little right.

Groom And 27 Horses Die In Fire At Batavia Downs

Demon Damsel, Top Trotter, Perishes At New York Track

BATAVIA, N.Y. (UPI) — Fire raced through two stables at Batavia Downs Sunday, killing a groom and at least 21 harness horses—including one which had won $44,000 this season.

The dead man was identified as groom Jack Jamieson, 35, believed from Butler, Pa., who arrived at the track only in the last couple of days, police said. A track spokesman said that 70 horses were in the two 100 by 40 foot cement block stables at the 22-year-old track when the fire began.

Trainers and grooms led the others to safety, the spokesman said.

All the dead horses were trained by Bud Gilmour of Hamburg, N.Y., and Cling Galbraith of Tara, Ont., the spokesman said.

He said that at least 17 trained by Gilmour died and four in Galbraith's string perished. The track said that four horses still were missing, but were believed to have run away in the confusion after they were led from the burning barns.

Denver Trims Oakland, 23-6

Mingo Accounts For 17 Tallies

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Scoring machine Gene Mingo accounted for 17 points Sunday as the league-leading Denver Broncos scrambled the winless Oakland Raiders, 23-6, in an American Football League game played on mud-slicked Frank Youell Field.

The 200-pound halfback, who has accounted for 83 points in six games this season, kicked three field goals for a 9-0 Broncos lead, then scored the game's first touchdown and added the extra point. Lionel Taylor made the other Denver score on a 1-yard pass from Frank Tripucka and Mingo again converted.

Savage defensive play by the Broncos allowed the Raiders few scoring opportunities as Oakland went down to its fifth straight defeat before a crowd estimated at 7,000. This was the Broncos' fifth win in six games and gave them undisputed possession of first place in the Western Division.

Johnson Wins Race, Cops $10,350 Prize

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Hulking Junior Johnson of Ronda, N.C., grabbed the lead at the start Sunday and went out to victory in the $50,000 national 400-mile stock car race.

The 215-pound Johnson, who started on the outside pole position, never was out of the lead except for brief times he spent in the pits. He averaged 132.26 miles an hour in a 1962 Pontiac built by Ray Pof of Daytona Beach, Fla.

Johnson picked up $10,350 first prize money. Glenn (Fireball) Roberts of Daytona Beach, who started on the inside pole position, finished second, nearly a lap behind, in a 1962 Pontiac. Fred Lorenzen of Elmhurst, Ill., was third in a 1962 Ford. Roberts collected $5,315 and Lorenzen $3,260.

Giants And Yankees Expect To Resume World Series Play Today

Fair Weather Forecast For San Francisco

Ford Scheduled To Oppose Pierce In Sixth Contest

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The sun finally shone brightly Sunday after three days of rain but the soggy condition of Candlestick Park's outfield forced a third straight postponement of the sixth game of this water-logged World Series.

There was every indication that the New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants would be able to resume play Monday if the weather forecast of "fair and warmer" holds good. The usual Candlestick Park winds were helping to dry up the outfield.

Commissioner Ford Frick called off the Sunday game early in the morning after conferring with Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants, and the two senior umpires.

"We can not go today (Sunday), despite the blue sky," said Frick. "There is water in the outfield and it is impossible to cut the grass. The grounds keeper and his men will work all day on the field and we'll have a game Monday."

Outfield Soggy
The infield was in good condition because it had been covered by a tarpaulin all through the rains of San Francisco's worst October storm since 1904. However, the outfield was soggy. Water oozed out of the heavy turf underfoot and a fly ball probably would have stuck where it landed.

Matty Schab, head grounds keeper, took the infield cover off early and started work on the outfield. A chemical had been used to soften up the adobe soil.

"We'll definitely go Monday," said Schab. "The outfield should be 70 per cent improved. We are trying to figure out a way to cut the grass."

Both ball clubs were itchy to get back into action after resting since Wednesday when the Yankees took a 3-2 edge in this best-of-seven Series with the Giants.

Unable to work out at Candlestick Park, both teams moved 100 miles east to Modesto, Calif., which has a club in the Class C California League and also is the home town of Del Webb, Yankee co-owner.

Gym Offers Declined
Both managers Ralph Houk of the Yankees and Alvin Dark of the Giants wanted their players to work out in spikes. They had passed up all offers to limber up in a gymnasium with sneakers.

Houk wanted Whitey Ford, his 34-year-old lefty ace to loosen up a bit because he had not worked since Monday and was accustomed to taking only three days between starts.

Ford remained Houk's starting choice. He won the 6-2 opener and left for a pinch hitter in the fourth game which eventually was lost by Jim Coates.

Billy Pierce, another veteran southpaw at 35, remained Dark's pitcher for the sixth game. Pierce lost the third game last Sunday 3-2 and hasn't pitched since. However, he often had a week's rest during the season. Dark also wanted Jack Sanford (24-7) to loosen up. Sanford will pitch the seventh game, if a seventh is needed. Ralph Terry will oppose him.

Not since 1911 had there been three straight postponements in a Series. In 1911 play was held up for a week from Oct. 17 to Oct. 24.

Casper Captures Bakersfield Open Title And $6,400

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Big Bill Casper, undaunted by a gloomy sky and a damp course, captured the Bakersfield Open golf tournament Sunday—the richest event of the fall tour—for his fourth victory of the year.

The formal National Open champion from Apple Valley, Calif., fired a final round of 67 for a 272 total—16 strokes under par. The $86,400 first place prize moved Casper to third ranked money winner for the year.

Trailing by four strokes in second place with 276 was handsome Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., who had a 71 and was third-round co-leader with Casper. Jackie Cupit of Longview, Tex., was third at 177, followed by Mason Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn., and Dave Hill, Jackson, Mich., both at 279.

Besides the first-place winnings, Casper wound up second in the Western tour's "honey pot" good for an extra $3,000. Bayer picked up the $5,000 first-place prize for the best point finishes here, at Portland, Las Vegas, Seattle and Denver.

Boston Bruins Tie Black Hawks, 2-2
BOSTON (UPI)—The unbeaten Boston Bruins fought back from a two goal deficit Sunday night for a 2-2 National Hockey League tie with the Chicago Black Hawks.

Catamounts Drop Fourth; South, Franklin Cop Wins

Virginia College Beats Potomac; Rebels Get Scare

Potomac State College's Catamounts, winless in their first four starts this season, had victory within their grasp Saturday night before dropping a 13-9 decision to Ferrum Junior College in a hard fought struggle at Roanoke, Va.

The area's other college eleven—Frostburg State's Bobcats—also fell victim to a Virginia school, losing to Bridgewater College, 22-6, Saturday afternoon on the winners' home grounds.

On the high school scene Saturday, Keyser High chalked up its fifth straight win by defeating Moorefield, 20-0, and in so doing moved into first place in the Potomac Valley Conference.

Other Saturday contests involving area high schools found Mountaineer stopping Northern, 20-6; Loudon Valley High of Purcellville (Va.) handing Bruce a 33-7 loss; American School for the Deaf (West Hartford, Conn.) routing W. Va. Deaf, 46-0; Charles Town dumping Berkeley Springs, 25-7; and Franklin blanking Valley High of Hot Springs (Va.), 13-0.

Two CVAL schools played non-league games Saturday. South Hagerstown's unbeaten Rebels nosed out Chambersburg, 27-26, in the Pennsylvania city, and Frederick lost to Sherwood, 6-0.

Time Expires On Cats
In Saturday's game at Roanoke, a fourth period touchdown pulled the game out for the Ferrum gridders, who trailed at half-time by a 9-7 margin. After Ferrum scored to go ahead, the Catamounts began to move the ball but time expired with the ball on the Virginians' 30.

Ferrum, a newcomer to the Catamounts' schedule, scored in the first period on a 40-yard pass-run play and added the extra point to take a 7-0 lead.

Potomac came back in the second quarter to tie it up when Fred Kroll connected with Bob Diaco on an aerial play that covered 50 yards, and Nick Lapcevic kicked the extra point. The Cats picked up two points on a safety when a bad pass from center caused Ferrum's would-be punter to be trapped in his own end zone.

Kroll filled in at the quarterback slot for the injured Harry Wilson and Catamount coach Dana (Horse) Lough was well pleased with the performance of the Clarksburg sophomore.

Two Catamount players were taken to a Roanoke hospital with injuries suffered in the battle. End Ken Cuprick suffered a slight concussion and is expected to be released today, while Mike Myers was released after x-rays of a possible fractured arm proved negative.

Injuries Hurt Bobcats
Injuries took a heavy toll on Frostburg State Saturday, with three defensive linemen—Fred Wartzack, Ken Poling and Jim Delaney—being sidelined in the opening period. An ankle injury forced Glenn Davis out of the lineup in the second quarter.

The Bobcats' only touchdown came in the second period on a six-yard run by Jim Evans. Bridgewater picked up single six-pointers in every quarter but the third, Frostburg's record is now 1-3.

Keyser High, whose only loss in six starts came in the opener with Martinsburg, took over undisputed possession of first place in the PVC with a 3-0 mark after beating the Yellowjackets at Moorefield.

Chuck Bradford, one of the leaders in the West Virginia high school scoring race, tallied one of the Tornado's TDs on a two-yard plunge. Elsworth Rinehart and quarterback Terry Turbin accounted for the others on runs of 25 and five yards, respectively.

Unbeaten but once-tied Mountaineer High upped its record to 6-0-1 with the victory over Northern Saturday night at Oakland. Jerry Flanagan scored a pair of touchdowns on 18 and 7-yard runs, and Ronnie Arnold's eight-yard scamper tallied the other. Northern's only score came on a 48-yard pass-run play in the third period from Jerry Fike to Larry Yommer.

Bruce's fledgling Bulldogs went down to their fourth straight defeat of the campaign, their Newcomb scored the Bulldogs' only touchdown on a 15-yard end sweep in the last quarter.

Extend Losing Streaks
Several other losing streaks were kept intact over the weekend. West Virginia Deaf suffered its fifth consecutive setback in a game played at Romney, and Berkeley Springs dropped number six to Charles Town.

Touchdown tosses from Herman Heyener to Bill Flippin and Larry Hedrick accounted for the scoring in Franklin's victory over Valley High at Hot Springs.

Unbeaten South Hagerstown had its back to the wall Saturday night, trailing Chambersburg by a 20-7 score at halftime, but the Rebels came back to pull out their sixth straight triumph.

With South leading 27-26 in the final period, Bob Bloyer crashed through to block an extra point attempt by Chambersburg that would have knotted the score.

Phil Petry, the Rebels' "Mr. Everything," scored three of the winners' four touchdowns, and picked up 113 yards on 23 rushing carries.

In a pair of Montgomery County League games of local interest, Bill Hahn's Wheaton Knights shut out Montgomery Blair, 10-0, and Roy Lester's Richard Montgomery eleven lost to Northwood, evening by a 14-0 margin.

Keller Improved
Ralph Keller, 18, of Fisher, W. Va., backfield star of Moorefield High School's football team who was injured in the Keyser-at-Moorefield game Saturday, was reported "much improved" last evening by attaches of the Grant County Memorial Hospital, Petersburg. Fisher was "up and around," the hospital announced, following a 3-1.

WINNER AT ILLINOIS — The University of Illinois football team may not be doing so well but the students sure picked a winner when they selected Deanna Kirschbaum, 20, of Melrose Park, Ill., for their Homecoming queen. She was a finalist in the Miss Illinois contest preliminary to the Miss Universe judging.

St. Mary's	0	3	0

Unbeaten St. Patrick's made it three in a row yesterday afternoon by defeating St. Mary's, 18-6, at Maryland to stay atop the standings in the Catholic Youth League.

SS. Peter and Paul moved into second place with a 26-6 win over St. Michael's on the Mt. Calvary Field.

Yesterday's pair of games ended the first round of play in the four-team circuit. Each team will meet the other three one more time before the six-game schedule is completed.

The Irishmen of St. Patrick's, coached by Buck Shober and Charlie Storer, were held to a 6-6 halftime tie by the last-place Gaels but exploded for touchdowns in each of the last two periods to clinch their third victory.

Danny Kerr scored a pair of touchdowns for the winners, on runs of 15 and four yards, while Tom Clay accounted for the other when he intercepted a pass and returned it 35 yards. St. Mary's only score came on a 60-yard run by Holten in the second quarter.

Defensive standouts for St. Patrick's were Buck Shober, Chuck Clark, Byron Blough, Clay, Horn and Powers, while Eddie Taylor, George Geatz, Pete Hartman and Kerr shone on offense. Perlozzo, Sheehy and Harden sparked the losers defensively, and Holten was their sparkplug on offense.

Pat McLean picked up three of the four touchdowns in SS. Peter and Paul's win, all on short bursts through the line. A 46-yard pass play from McLean to Kyle Geatz accounted for the other.

The Flying Dutchmen scored in every period in chalking up their second victory in three starts. For St. Michael's who entered the game with a 1-1 log, a last period pass accounted for their only score.

Fullback Jimmy Boyle was the offensive bulwark for the Dutchmen, picking up 104 yards in 22 carries. Jonathan McElfish and Francis Ruppert stood out defensively.

Penske Cops Riverside Grand Prix

Jim Hall Second And Gregory 3rd

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Roger Penske of Gladwyne, Pa., raced to victory in the 200-mile Riverside Grand Prix Sunday before 76,400 disappointed fans who watched hometown hero Dan Gurney relinquish his come-from-behind lead because of mechanical trouble.

Penske, piloting a new Zerex-Duralite Climax, sped to an early lead from his pole position, but was passed by Gurney's Lotus 19 Climax on the 39th lap.

Gurney, among six drivers who qualified for the Grand Prix Sunday morning, was forced to go to the pits and quit his building lead on the 60th lap because of a broken throttle.

The 25-year-old Penske covered the new 2.6-mile course that has a series of bobby pin-wrinkles in the remarkable time of 2:05.45, an average speed of 95.6 miles an hour. Last year's champion Jack Brabham averaged 94.6 miles an hour around a longer course.

Finishing second was Jim Hall of Midland, Tex., in his Chaparral-Chevy, and third was Masten Gregory, American living in England who drove a Lotus 19.

Innes Ireland, in fifth place, took the cash prize for the fastest car in the under 2-liter division.

Shofner Suffers Broken Shoulder

NEW YORK (UPI) — Del Shofner, star pass catcher of the New York Giants, suffered a broken right shoulder during Sunday's game with the Pittsburgh Steelers and will be lost to the team for "at least six weeks," a club official said.

Shofner was injured after being tackled during a Giants' fourth period touchdown drive. He and quarterback Y. A. Tittle had combined on a 15-yard pass play.

Shofner immediately was removed from the game and taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

MORE MILEAGE
BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — In 25 runnings of the Pimlico Cup the distance has ranged from 1½ miles to 2½ miles.

Nebraska Rifleman Cops World Title

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Gary Anderson of Axtell, Neb., won the world championship in the three position small bore rifle competition Sunday with a record score.

He scored 1,157 points in the prone, kneeling and standing positions, bettering by eight points the mark previously held by shooters from three countries.

Marat Niasov of the Soviet Union finished second with 1,147 and Erwin Vogt of Switzerland third in 1,142.

FSTC Booters Lose

Frostburg State Teachers College lost its second soccer game in five starts Saturday, dropping a 2-0 decision to Howard University at Washington. Howard has now won 14 games in a row, including three this season.

Hockey Rangers Beat Maple Leafs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Rangers scored three goals in slightly more than six minutes in the opening period Sunday night and went on to hand the Stanley Cup Champion Toronto Maple Leafs their first defeat of the infant National Hockey League season, 5-3.

Kathy Whitworth, who has finished second in six tournaments this year, came from behind to catch, and then pass, Mickey Wright of Dallas, with a two-under par 70. Her tourney score for the 54 holes was 213 compared to 217 for Miss Wright.

Giants And Yankees Expect To Resume World Series Play Today

Fair Weather Forecast For San Francisco

Ford Scheduled To Oppose Pierce In Sixth Contest

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The sun finally shone brightly Sunday after three days of rain but the soggy condition of Candlestick Park's outfield forced a third straight postponement of the sixth game of this water-logged World Series.

There was every indication that the New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants would be able to resume play Monday if the weather forecast of "fair and warmer" holds good. The usual Candlestick Park winds were helping to dry up the outfield.

Commissioner Ford Frick called off the Sunday game early in the morning after conferring with Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants, and the two senior umpires.

"We can not go today (Sunday), despite the blue sky," said Frick. "There is water in the outfield and it is impossible to cut the grass. The grounds keeper and his men will work all day on the field and we'll have a game Monday."

Outfield Soggy
The infield was in good condition because it had been covered by a tarpaulin all through the rains of San Francisco's worst October storm since 1904. However, the outfield was soggy. Water oozed out of the heavy turf underfoot and a fly ball probably would have stuck where it landed.

Ketty Schwab, head grounds keeper, took the infield cover off early and started work on the outfield. A chemical had been used to soften up the adobe soil. "We'll definitely go Monday," said Schwab. "The outfield should be 70 per cent improved. We are trying to figure out a way to cut the grass."

Both ball clubs were itchy to get back into action after resting since Wednesday when the Yankees took a 3-2 edge in this best-of-seven Series with the Giants. Unable to work out at Candlestick Park, both teams moved 100 miles east to Modesto, Calif., which has a club in the Class C California League and also is the home town of Del Webb, Yankee co-owner.

Gym Offers Declined
Both managers Ralph Houk of the Yanks and Alvin Dark of the Giants wanted their players to work out in spikes. They had passed up all offers to limber up in a gymnasium with sneakers. Houk wanted Whitey Ford, his 34-year-old lefty ace to loosen up a bit because he had not worked since Monday and was accustomed to taking only three days between starts.

Ford remained Houk's starting choice. He won the 6-2 opener and left for a pinch hitter in the fourth game which eventually was lost by Jim Coates.

Billy Pierce, another veteran southpaw at 35, remained Dark's pitcher for the sixth game. Pierce lost the third game last Sunday 3-2 and hasn't pitched since. However, he often had a week's rest during the season. Dark also wanted Jack Sanford (24-7) to loosen up. Sanford will pitch the seventh game, if a seventh is needed. Ralph Terry will oppose him.

Not since 1911 had there been three straight postponements in a Series. In 1911 play was held up for a week from Oct. 17 to Oct. 24.

Casper Captures Bakersfield Open Title And $6,400

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Big Bill Casper, undaunted by a gloomy sky and a damp course, captured the Bakersfield Open golf tournament Sunday—the richest event of the fall tour—for his fourth victory of the year.

The formal National Open champion from Apple Valley, Calif., fired a final round of 67 for a 272 total—16 strokes under par. The $86,400 first prize prize moved Casper to third ranked money winner for the year.

Trailing by four strokes in second place with 276 was handsome Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., who had a 71 and was third-round co-leader with Casper. Jackie Cupit of Longview, Tex., was third at 177, followed by Mason Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn., and Dave Hill, Jackson, Mich., both at 279.

Besides the first-place winnings, Casper wound up second in the Western tour's "honey pot" poked for an extra $3,000. Bayer picked up the $5,000 first-place prize for the best point finishes here, at Portland, Las Vegas, Seattle and Denver.

Boston Bruins Tie Black Hawks, 2-2

BOSTON (UPI)—The unbeaten Boston Bruins fought back from a two goal deficit Sunday night for a 2-2 National Hockey League tie with the Chicago Black Hawks.

Catamounts Drop Fourth; South, Franklin Cop Wins

Virginia College Beats Potomac; Rebels Get Score

Potomac State College's Catamounts, winless in their first four starts this season, had victory within their grasp Saturday night before dropping a 13-9 decision to Ferrum Junior College in a hard fought struggle at Roanoke, Va.

The area's other college eleven—Frostburg State's Bobcats—also fell victim to a Virginia school, losing to Bridgewater College, 22-6, Saturday afternoon on the winners' home grounds.

On the high school scene Saturday, Keyser High chalked up its fifth straight win by defeating Moorefield, 20-0, and in so doing moved into first place in the Potomac Valley Conference.

Other Saturday contests involving area high schools found Mountaineer stopping Northern, 20-6; Loudoun Valley High of Purcellville (Va.) handing Bruce a 33-7 loss; American School for the Deaf (West Hartford, Conn.) routing W. Va. Deaf, 46-0; Charles Town dumping Berkeley Springs, 25-7; and Franklin blanking Valley High of Hot Springs (Va.), 13-0.

Two CVAL schools played non-league games Saturday. South Hagerstown's unbeaten Rebels nosed out Chambersburg, 27-26, in the Pennsylvania city, and Frederick lost to Sherwood, 6-0. Time Expires On Cats

In Saturday's game at Roanoke, a fourth period touchdown pulled the game out for the Ferrum gridders, who trailed at halftime by a 9-7 margin. After Ferrum scored to go ahead, the Catamounts began to move the ball but time expired with the ball on the Virginians' 30.

Ferrum, a newcomer to the Catamounts' schedule, scored in the first period on a 40-yard pass-run play and added the extra point to take a 7-0 lead.

Potomac came back in the second quarter to tie it up when Fred Krull connected with Bob Diaco on an aerial play that covered 50 yards, and Nick Lapcevic kicked the extra point.

The Cats picked up two points on a safety when a bad pass from center caused Ferrum's would-be punter to be trapped in his own end zone.

Kroll filled in at the quarterback slot for the injured Harry Wilson and Catamount coach Dana (Horse) Lough was well pleased with the performance of the Clarksburg sophomore.

Two Catamount players were taken to a Roanoke hospital with injuries suffered in the battle. Ed Ken Cuprick suffered a slight concussion and is expected to be released today, while Mike Myers was released after x-rays of a possible fractured arm proved negative.

Injuries Hurt Bobcats
Injuries took a heavy toll on Frostburg State Saturday, with three defensive linemen—Fred Wartack, Ken Poling and Jim Delaney—being sidelined in the opening period. An ankle injury forced Glenn Davis out of the lineup in the second quarter.

The Bobcats' only touchdown came in the second period on a six-yard run by Jim Evans. Bridgewater picked up single six-pointers in every quarter but the third. Frostburg's record is now 1-3.

Keyser High, whose only loss in six starts came in the opener with Martinsburg, took over undisputed possession of first place in the P.V.C. with a 3-0 mark after beating the Yellowjackets at Moorefield.

Chuck Bradfield, one of the leaders in the West Virginia high school scoring race, tallied one of the Tornados' two-yard plunge. Elsworth Ranehart and quarterback Terry Turbin accounted for the others on runs of 25 and five yards, respectively.

Unbeaten Mt. Vernon Mountaineer High upped its record to 6-0 with the victory over Northern Saturday night at Oakland. Jerry Flanagan scored a pair of touchdowns on 18 and 7-yard runs, and Ronnie Arnold's eight-yard scamper tallied the other. Northern's only score came on a 48-yard pass-run play in the third period from Jerry Fike to Larry Yommer.

Bruce's fledgling Bulldogs went down to their fourth straight defeat of the campaign, their first in varsity competition. Lou Newcomb scored the Bulldogs' only touchdown on a 15-yard end sweep in the last quarter.

Extend Losing Streaks
Several other losing streaks were kept intact over the weekend. West Virginia Deaf suffered its fifth consecutive setback in a game played at Romney, and Berkeley Springs dropped number six to Charles Town.

Touchdown losses from Herman Hevener to Bill Flippin and Larry Hedrick accounted for the scoring in Franklin's victory over Valley High at Hot Springs.

Unbeaten South Hagerstown had its back to the wall Saturday night, trailing Chambersburg by a 20-7 score at halftime, but the Rebels came back to pull out their sixth straight triumph.

With South leading 27-26 in the final period, Bob Bloyer crashed through to block an extra point attempt by Chambersburg that would have knotted the score.

Phil Petry, the Rebels' "Mr. Everything," scored three of the winners' four touchdowns, and picked up 113 yards on 23 rushing carries.

In a pair of Montgomery County League games of local interest, Bill Hahn's Wheat Knights shut out Montgomery Blair, 10-0, and Roy Lester's Richard Montgomery eleven lost to Northwood, 21-0. Wheaton leads the MCL with a 2-0-1 mark. Richard Montgomery is 3-1.

Keller Improved
Ralph Keller, 18, of Fisher, W. Va., backfield star of Moorefield High School's football team who was injured in the Keyser-at-Moorefield game Saturday, was reported "much improved" last evening by attaches of the Grant County Memorial Hospital, Petersburg. Fisher was "up and around," the hospital announced.

WINNER AT ILLINOIS — The University of Illinois football team may not be doing so well but the students sure picked a winner when they selected Deanna Kirschbaum, 20, of Melrose Park, Ill., for their Homecoming queen. She was a finalist in the Miss Illinois contest preliminary to the Miss Universe judging.

Unbeaten St. Patrick's made it three in a row yesterday afternoon by defeating St. Mary's, 18-6, at Maryland to stay atop the standings in the Catholic Youth League. SS. Peter and Paul moved into second place with a 2-6 win over St. Michael's on the Mt. Calvary Field.

Yesterday's pair of games ended the first round of play in the four-team circuit. Each team will meet the other one more time before the six-game schedule is completed.

The Irishmen of St. Patrick's, coached by Buck Shober and Charlie Storer, were held to a 6-6 halftime tie by the last-place Gaels but exploded for touchdowns in each of the last two periods to clinch their third victory.

Danny Kerr scored a pair of touchdowns for the winners, on runs of 15 and four yards, while Tom Clay accounted for the other when he intercepted a pass and returned it 35 yards. St. Mary's only score came on a 60-yard run by Hollen in the second quarter.

Defensive standouts for St. Patrick's were Buck Shober, Chuck Clark, Byron Blough, Clay, Horn and Powers, while Eddie Taylor, George Geatz, Pete Hartman and Kerr shone on offense. Perlozzo, Sheche and Harden sparked the losers defensively, and Hollen was their sparkplug on offense.

Pat McLean picked up three of the four touchdowns in SS. Peter and Paul's win, all on short bursts through the line. A 46-yard pass play from McLean to Kyle Geatz accounted for the other.

The Flying Dutchmen scored in every period in chalking up their second victory in three starts. For St. Michael's who entered the game with a 1-1 log, a last period pass accounted for their only score.

Fullback Jimmy Boyle was the offensive bulwark for the Dutchmen, picking up 104 yards in 22 carries. Jonathan McElfish and Francis Ruppert stood out defensively.

Penske Cops Riverside Grand Prix

Jim Hall Second And Gregory 3rd

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Roger Penske of Gladwyne, Pa., raced to victory in the 200-mile Riverside Grand Prix Sunday before 76,400 disappointed fans who watched hometown hero Dan Gurney relinquish his come-from-behind lead because of mechanical trouble.

Penske, piloting a new Zerex-Duralite Climax, sped to an early lead from his pole position, but was passed by Gurney's Lotus 19 Climax on the 39th lap.

Gurney, among six drivers who qualified for the Grand Prix Sunday morning, was forced to go to the pits and quit his building lead on the 60th lap because of a broken throttle.

The 25-year-old Penske covered the new 2.6-mile course that has a series of bumpy pin-winkles in the remarkable time of 2:05.45, an average speed of 95.6 miles an hour. Last year's champion Jack Brabham averaged 94.6 miles an hour around a longer course.

Finishing second was Jim Hall of Midland, Tex., in his Chaparral-Chevy, and third was Masten Gregory, American living in England who drove a Lotus 19.

Innes Ireland, in fifth place, took the cash prize for the fastest car in the under 2-liter division.

Shofner Suffers Broken Shoulder

NEW YORK (UPI) — Del Shofner, star pass catcher of the New York Giants, suffered a broken right shoulder during Sunday's game with the Pittsburgh Steelers and will be lost to the team for "at least six weeks," a club official said.

Shofner was injured after being tackled during a Giants' fourth period touchdown drive. He and quarterback Y. A. Tittle had combined on a 15-yard pass play. Shofner immediately was removed from the game and taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

MORE MILEAGE
BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — In 25 runnings of the Pimlico Cup the distance has ranged from 1½ miles to 2½ miles.

Nebraska Rifleman Cops World Title

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Gary Anderson of Axtell, Neb., won the world championship in the three position small bore rifle competition Sunday with a record score.

He scored 1,157 points in the prone, kneeling and standing positions, bettering by eight points the mark previously held by shooters from three countries.

Marat Niasov of the Soviet Union finished second with 1,147 and Erwin Vogt of Switzerland third in 1,142.

Miller Says Demo Invasion Of Md. To Fail

Senate Candidate Criticizes Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Washington Democrats plan a Maryland invasion, which will fail like the invasion of Cuba, the Republican nominee for U.S. Senate said Sunday.

Edward T. Miller, speaking at an oyster roast in Annapolis, called Postmaster General Ed Day a "California carpet bagger."

He said that Day, who spoke at a Democratic rally in Salisbury Friday night, "is from and votes in California, thereby disqualifying in the eyes of the New Frontier as an expert on Maryland politics."

"This sort of illogical logic is all so typical of the Kennedy Administration," Miller declared.

The Senate nominee said visits by other cabinet members and administration failed in its attempted invasion of Cuba last year.

President Kennedy delivered a rousing speech at a Democratic rally attended by some 8,000 at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore last Wednesday.

And Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson appeared at a dinner in Pikesville a week before. The theme of their efforts was the election of Democrats Nov. 6.

Frank Small Jr., meanwhile, kept up his attack on his Democratic opponent for Maryland governor, J. Millard Tawes.

Small reiterated that Gov. Tawes changed his position on slot machines for political reasons and urged the governor to "prove his sincerity on the slot . . . issue by calling a special session of the legislature" to abolish the gambling devices.

"If he is re-elected," Small declared, "this would be another link in his chain of broken promises."

Gov. Tawes announced recently that he no longer considers slot machines a local issue to be resolved by the four Southern Maryland counties where they are legal, but one that requires statewide legislation.

Tax Payments Pass $500,000

Collection of city taxes has passed the half-million-dollar mark, according to Frederick J. Hill, city finance commissioner. The exact amount was roughly $579,000, or 43 per cent of the $1,345,790 tax levy.

Business was relatively slack last week at the City Collector's Office but some $132,000 of 1962-1963 taxes was taken in.

Tax office workers are anticipating brisk business this week, as the October 22 deadline for interest-free payments approaches.

The finance office generally expects to collect at least 80 per cent of all taxes before the interest deadline is reached.

Police Chief Urges Check Of Car Lights

Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney reports that burned-out lamps, front, rear and turn signals, are the leading cause for rejections at safety checks, as well as jeopardizing the safety of all drivers.

He suggests that drivers check their lights by simply pushing their brake pedal and pulling their light switch, while another member of the family looks for burned-out bulbs.

Anyone who drives at night and comes upon a car with a burned-out headlight, tail or signal light, or followed a car with one, quickly realizes why defective lights can cause accidents.

Democrat Club Makes Break With Pollack

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Democratic forces of Gov. Tawes continued to chip away at the strength of James H. (Jack) Pollack in northwest Baltimore.

The Democratic Campaign Committee made public Sunday a statement of endorsement from state Sen. J. Alvin Jones, D-Balto 4th, and the Monumental Democratic Club, Inc.

Jones ran unsuccessfully with Pollack's backing for renomination in the May primary. Del. Verda Welcome ran with Tawes' support and defeated Jones by a small margin.

Jones, in his statement, announced that he and his Democratic organization are making a break with Pollack.

"For the past 25 years, the Monumental Democratic Club has been associated with the . . . Pollack organization and is going to function as an independent group and not be associated with any other political leaders or factions," the statement read.

"Sen. Jones wishes to emphasize the fact that while he has high personal regard for Mr. Pollack, he has not been in accord with him on various issues which have arisen during the past several months.

"The members of the . . . club feel that their organization is of sufficient stature to select their own candidates and to deal directly and personally with them rather than through other parties."

"Therefore, they have endorsed Gov. Tawes and his statewide running mates because they believe them to be better qualified for the respective offices which they are seeking than those who are opposing them."

During the summer, a group of 5th District Democratic leaders, including Dels. Marvin Mandel and Richard T. Rombro, broke with the Pollack organization and promised to support Tawes.

Pollack is influential in the 4th and 5th districts.

The statewide Democratic ticket, meanwhile, announced they will start saturating the television screens Monday night with their appeals for election Nov. 6.

The filmed programs will begin with Gov. Tawes discussing economic development of Maryland during his administration. The film will be shown twice Monday—at 7:25 p.m. over WJZ-TV and at 11:20 p.m. over WMAR-TV.

The governor's running mate—Carlton R. Sickles for congressman-at-large, Daniel B. Brewster for U. S. Senate, Louis L. Goldstein for comptroller and Thomas B. Finan for attorney general—will make subsequent filmed appearances.

Herbert R. O'Connor Jr., statewide campaign manager, will appear three times Wednesday night.

Democrat Club Makes Break With Pollack

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Democratic forces of Gov. Tawes continued to chip away at the strength of James H. (Jack) Pollack in northwest Baltimore.

The Democratic Campaign Committee made public Sunday a statement of endorsement from state Sen. J. Alvin Jones, D-Balto 4th, and the Monumental Democratic Club, Inc.

Jones ran unsuccessfully with Pollack's backing for renomination in the May primary. Del. Verda Welcome ran with Tawes' support and defeated Jones by a small margin.

Jones, in his statement, announced that he and his Democratic organization are making a break with Pollack.

"For the past 25 years, the Monumental Democratic Club has been associated with the . . . Pollack organization and is going to function as an independent group and not be associated with any other political leaders or factions," the statement read.

"Sen. Jones wishes to emphasize the fact that while he has high personal regard for Mr. Pollack, he has not been in accord with him on various issues which have arisen during the past several months.

"The members of the . . . club feel that their organization is of sufficient stature to select their own candidates and to deal directly and personally with them rather than through other parties.

"Therefore, they have endorsed Gov. Tawes and his statewide running mates because they believe them to be better qualified for the respective offices which they are seeking than those who are opposing them."

During the summer, a group of 5th District Democratic leaders, including Dels. Marvin Mandel and Richard T. Rombro, broke with the Pollack organization and promised to support Tawes.

Pollack is influential in the 4th and 5th districts.

The statewide Democratic ticket, meanwhile, announced they will start saturating the television screens Monday night with their appeals for election Nov. 6.

The filmed programs will begin with Gov. Tawes discussing economic development of Maryland during his administration. The film will be shown twice Monday—at 7:25 p.m. over WJZ-TV and at 11:20 p.m. over WMAR-TV.

The governor's running mates—Carlton R. Sickles for congressman-at-large, Daniel B. Brewster for U. S. Senate, Louis L. Goldstein for comptroller and Thomas B. Finan for attorney general—will make subsequent filmed appearances.

Herbert R. O'Connor Jr., statewide campaign manager, will appear three times Wednesday night.

Area Firemen Adopt Group Life Insurance

Prevention Week Reports Reviewed

The executive board of Allegheny-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association yesterday took final action on a group life insurance program for all volunteer firemen, and a contract was signed by Charles Crawford, Bowling Green, association president, and Homer Ambrose, McCoolle, association secretary.

The plan provides $1,000 life insurance at group rates for any firemen interested in obtaining it. The insurance program is to become effective on November 1.

The board met at the Midland Fire Hall, with 25 member companies represented. There were 12 past presidents in attendance.

Prevention Week

The fire prevention activities committee reported that during Fire Prevention Week this month, public buildings were inspected and fire drills held and checked at all schools in the two counties.

Firemen of the association also took part in a state-wide drill last Monday at 10 a. m.

Two training classes have been started at Bedford Road and Midland. These are basic fire-fighting classes held each Thursday from 7 to 10 p. m., and are open to any interested firemen. There are 60 hours, or 20 classes of three hours each in the course.

Classes are also projected at dates to be announced for LaVale, Bowling Green, Corriganville and Cresaptown. These will be basic classes. Oakland and Deer Park firemen will combine for an advanced course.

The fire-fighting courses are sponsored and arranged through the cooperation of the Fire Service Extension, University of Maryland.

The Heroism Committee, of which Henry Wintermyer of LaVale is chairman, recommended that James McMorran of Frostburg be presented a heroism award, given by the Independent Insurance Agents of Allegheny and Garrett counties.

Mr. McMorran is cited for bravery in connection with a trailer fire near Frostburg May 31, 1961. As a result of that blaze, several children were rescued by Mr. McMorran and by James Lamberson, former fire chief at Barton, who died as a result of a heart attack, after extreme physical exertion in helping rescue the children and fight the blaze.

Posthumous Award
An award was made posthumously to Chief Lamberson, and Mr. McMorran will receive his award at the December meeting of the association.

LaVale Fire Company reported that the company has 57 days accumulated without an alarm, which represents something of a record. This unit, it was reported has been making a special effort toward fire prevention. One of the major causes of fires in LaVale, was burning brakes on trucks and tractor trailers as they came from the west over Route 40. Letters were sent to all major trucking lines with trucks in this area, calling attention to this problem. There has not been a call for a brake fire since these letters went out. LaVale spokesmen reported.

The association will again conduct the annual Muscular Dystrophy fund campaign in these two counties. David E. Kirk, first vice president of the state association and statewide chairman for the campaign, said that Alvin Rankin of Frostburg, will be local chairman. Coin canisters were distributed to the firemen yesterday.

Announcement was made of a state executive board meeting next Sunday at 9:30 a. m. at Damascus. The local insurance committee will meet next Sunday at 2 p. m. at the home of Homer Ambrose, McCoolle.

Marbury Gates, Rockville, of the state association legislative committee and Spencer J. H. Brown of Sandy Springs, a state past president, were guests. The Ladies Auxiliary to the Midland Fire Company served dinner.

The next meeting will be at Shaft, November 4.
